How to read this report

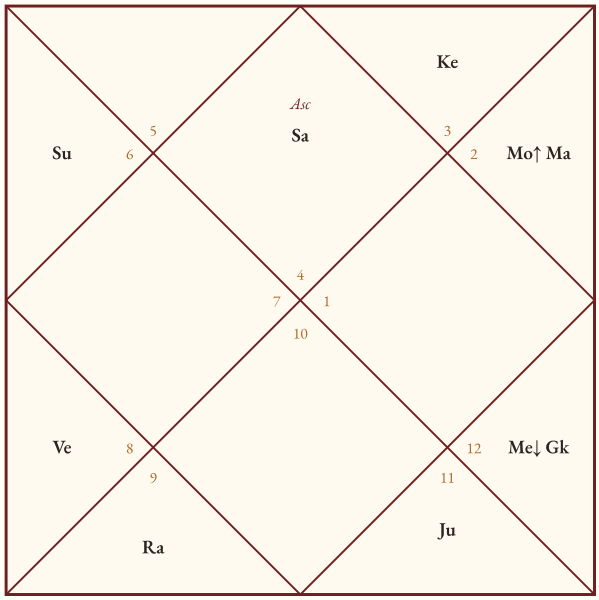

Jyotish describes tendencies and timing, not certainties. The classical texts state their results bluntly; this report gives their sense, weighs each factor against the rest of the chart, and says where sources differ. The planetary positions come from one computation and are treated as correct; the reading is an interpretation and can be wrong. Nothing here is medical, financial or legal advice.

1 Chart at a glance

Aries rises, with the Moon in Aquarius in the Purva Bhadrapada star and the Sun in Leo in the 5th house. The Moon is the chart's central planet: it is the Atmakaraka, the planet with the highest degree in its sign, which stands for the self, and it is exalted in the navamsa (the D9 chart, which texts use to read inner values and partnership).

Rashi chart (D1), North Indian style. The houses are fixed (the 1st is the top centre diamond, then anticlockwise); the numbers are signs (1 = Aries to 12 = Pisces). ↑ exalted, ↓ debilitated, (R) retrograde, Gk = Gulika.

Navamsa chart (D9), Cancer rising. Exalted here: Moon. Debilitated here: Mercury.

Table 4. Functional roles of the planets for Aries lagna

Planet	Houses ruled	Functional role	In this chart
Sun	5	Lord of the 5th (a trine): helpful	Moolatrikona, in the 5th (Leo); Bhratrikaraka
Moon	4	Lord of the 4th (an angle): generally helpful	Neutral sign, in the 11th (Aquarius); Atmakaraka
Mars	1, 8	Lagna lord: helpful (the 1st lordship outweighs the 8th)	Friend's sign, in the 9th (Sagittarius); Darakaraka
Mercury	3, 6	Lord of the 3rd and 6th: difficult for this lagna despite being a natural benefic	Exalted, in the 6th (Virgo); Gnatikaraka
Jupiter	9, 12	Lord of the 9th (a trine): helpful; the trine lordship outweighs the 12th	Enemy's sign, in the 3rd (Gemini); Matrikaraka
Venus	2, 7	Lord of the 2nd and 7th: mixed; carries money, partners and stress on health	Enemy's sign, in the 4th (Cancer); Putrakaraka
Saturn	10, 11	Lord of the 10th and 11th: difficult for this lagna	Friend's sign, in the 2nd (Taurus); Amatyakaraka
Rahu	-	A node: gives the results of its sign lord Mercury and of the house it occupies	-, in the 3rd (Gemini)
Ketu	-	A node: gives the results of its sign lord Jupiter and of the house it occupies	-, in the 9th (Sagittarius)

The shape of the chart

Three of the four corner houses are empty: the 1st, 7th and 10th. Venus holds the 4th. Mercury is the only planet in a difficult house (the 6th, 8th or 12th). Strength shows most clearly in the navamsa, where the Moon is exalted, and no planet is vargottama, meaning in the same sign in the birth chart and the navamsa.

The planets pass rulership to one another in two ways. The Moon, Venus and Saturn form a loop, each ruling the sign the next one occupies, so none of the three ends the chain. Mercury, in its own sign, is where the chains of Mars and Jupiter finish. The Sun, also in its own sign, rules only itself, so it is not the chart's final ruler.

Six themes

1. The lagna lord is steady in the 9th. Mars rules the Aries rising sign and sits in the 9th, in Sagittarius, a sign friendly to it. It helps form two combinations: Raja (the lords of the angular and trine houses joined) and Dhana (the lords of the wealth houses joined). The rising star is Ashwini, ruled by Ketu, which sits in the 9th alongside Mars. Ketu also aspects the rising sign, a malefic aspect, though only some authors count a node's aspect. Personality explains the lagna lord and the rising sign; Spirituality covers the 9th.

1. The Moon is the core self. The Moon sits in the 11th, in Aquarius. It counts as a benefic in this chart because it is waning and more than 90 degrees from the Sun, though its sign placement is neutral. Its exaltation in the navamsa gives it strong backing from inside the chart. Mind explains the Moon.

1. Mercury offers promise that needs effort. Mercury is exalted in Virgo in the 6th, but debilitated in the navamsa, in Pisces. Its gifts look strong on the surface and may take more effort to deliver. Mind explains Mercury; Health covers the 6th house.

1. The Sun is in its strongest zone. The Sun is in Leo, in its moolatrikona zone (the part of its sign where it is at its strongest), in the 5th house. Personality explains the Sun; Family covers the 5th.

1. Venus holds the 4th in an enemy's sign. Venus sits in Cancer, a sign ruled by its enemy the Moon, and it is the only planet in a corner house. It rules the 2nd and 7th, so money and partnership run through it. Family covers the 4th; Relationships covers the 7th.

1. Jupiter and Rahu share the 3rd. Jupiter rules the 9th and 12th and sits in Gemini, an enemy's sign, alongside Rahu. Jupiter is one of the planets that help form Raja and Dhana. Family covers the 3rd; Yogas and doshas gathers the combinations.

Strengths and tensions

Strengths: the lagna lord sits in a trine house; the Moon is exalted in the navamsa; the Sun is in moolatrikona; Mercury is exalted in the main chart; Jupiter rules a trine house; several planets help form Raja and Dhana.

Tensions: Mercury is debilitated in the navamsa; Venus is in an enemy's sign; three corner houses are empty; Mars also rules the 8th, a difficult house, and shares the 9th with Ketu; Rahu sits with Jupiter.

Birth-time sensitivity

The lagna falls at 10.9 degrees of Aries, so a change of sign would need the birth time to be off by about 43 minutes. The lagna sits about a quarter of the way through its navamsa division (26%) and about two-thirds through its dashamsa division (D10, 62%). Divisions this close to their edges can shift with a few minutes' error, so the navamsa and dashamsa readings depend closely on the exact birth time, and D10 notes should be read with that caveat. The Moon moves only about half a degree an hour, so its sign and star are far less sensitive than the lagna and the divisional charts.

Functional roles for this lagna

- Mars: lagna lord and ruler of the 8th; a natural malefic whose role is mixed, leading the chart while also carrying a difficult house.
- Sun and Jupiter: trine lords; Jupiter also rules the 12th.
- Moon: ruler of the 4th, an angular house.
- Venus: rules the 2nd and 7th, and is an angular lord through the 7th.
- Saturn: rules the 10th and 11th, an angular house and a gain house.
- Mercury: rules the 3rd and the difficult 6th.

2 Personality and temperament

You were born with Aries rising, so your first impression tends to be direct, quick and independent. Aries is traditionally read as brave and self-willed, ready to act before others have finished deliberating. The same energy can show up as impatience or a short fuse. The rising sign is a tendency, not a fixed pattern, and the planets around it shape how it comes across. Your rising degree sits well inside the sign (about 11 degrees in), so Aries holds unless the recorded birth time is off by more than about 40 minutes.

The rising sign and lagna nakshatra

Your outer manner is shaped by two things. The first is the rising sign itself: fierce pride, competitiveness and a strategic mind, balanced by frankness and a wish to win fairly. Some texts describe the Aries native as lively but prone to extremes, so a clear sense of priorities helps.

The second is your lagna nakshatra, Ashwini, which is ruled by Ketu. Ashwini is described as a swift, healing and capable star: a person who is attractive, fond of good things, quick to learn and full of vitality. Ketu, its lord, sits in your 9th house, which adds a leaning toward belief, philosophy and a certain detachment.

The lagna lord, Mars

Mars rules your rising sign and sits in the 9th house, in Sagittarius, a sign ruled by its friend Jupiter. A lagna lord in a trinal house is a strong start: it points to fortune, principles and a good name built on conviction. Traditional texts describe this placement as lucky, well-liked and eloquent, with a sincere interest in dharma and in teachers.

Mars also rules your 8th house, so its energy comes with some effort. You may need to work for results, but the work tends to pay off. Mars is well clear of the Sun, so it is not weakened by proximity. Ketu sits with it and Rahu's glance falls on it, which can add a restless, detached edge and sudden shifts of focus. Jupiter, a natural benefic, casts its aspect on Mars, and this softens the edge.

Mars in Sagittarius also asks for a managed temper. Traditional writers describe a fearless, frank and driven person who can lose ground when anger gets the better of them. Mars in the 9th brings logic, acuteness and a stubborn streak; the risk is dogmatism, so openness to other views is worth practising. The combination of the lagna lord in the 9th forms Raja Yoga, a union of kendra and trikona lords that traditionally brings rise in standing, and Dhana Yoga, a wealth combination.

Planets in the rising sign or aspecting it

No planet occupies your rising sign. Ketu also casts a glance at it from the 9th, but traditional authorities disagree on whether the shadow planets cast aspects at all, so it adds little beyond its placement. Jupiter and Rahu also aspect Mars, as described above.

The Sun

The Sun sits in Leo in your 5th house, in the first 20 degrees of Leo, its moolatrikona zone, which is a dignified position. The Sun is a natural malefic in your chart, so its manner can be direct and sometimes hard. As ruler of the 5th house, however, it carries creativity, teaching ability and a love of standing up in front of others.

Traditional writers describe a Sun-in-Leo native as enthusiastic, valorous and generous, but quick to anger and restless. Modern writers add stubbornness, independence and a strong sense of self-respect. The Moon's aspect on the Sun is a helpful note, pointing toward learning and recognition. Traditional texts are cautious about the Sun in the 5th house on matters of children and money; modern writers read that as a question of timing and patience rather than a fixed outcome. For your personality, the lead theme is intelligence and a creative or teaching gift, with a pride that does well when it is channelled rather than spent on quarrels.

The Moon sign, briefly

The Moon is in Aquarius, in the 11th house, in the nakshatra Purva Bhadrapada. It is your Atmakaraka, the planet with the highest degree in its sign, which stands for the soul and the core drive of a life. It is a natural benefic in your chart because it is waning and well away from the Sun, and it is exalted in your navamsa chart, which is a sign of inner steadiness. Traditional writers link the Moon in Aquarius with a noble, polite and cultured manner, and modern writers add artistic taste, a gentle temper and gratitude, with a tendency at times to hold back what you really think. More on the Moon sign appears in the Mind section.

Purva Bhadrapada adds depth. Classical writers read it as clever, careful with money and sometimes troubled. Modern writers describe intense, devoted and persevering feelings, with a long memory for hurts. Jupiter's benefic aspect on the Moon supports the good side of this nakshatra. Saturn and Rahu also aspect the Moon, so feelings can run deep and sometimes heavy.

The birth day and tithi

You were born on a Monday, the day of the Moon. Some texts suggest that this gives a calm, gentle and kind manner of speech, a settled presence beneath an active life. Your birth tithi is Krishna Pratipada, the first day of the waning half of the lunar month. Some texts link it with a large family circle, wisdom, discernment and a liking for gold and fine things. Treat these as light colouring rather than fate.

Synthesis

The picture is a fierce, direct outer style resting on a steady, principled core. Mars and the Sun are the two drivers. Mars gives courage, conviction and fortune through action; the Sun gives self-respect, creativity and a need to be seen. The Moon, as your Atmakaraka, offers a softer inner centre: gentle, adaptable and caring, with depth of feeling that can turn inward. Ketu's presence in the 9th house adds a seeker's streak.

The main area for growth is temper. The rising sign, Mars and the Sun all run hot, and their quick anger comes from the same fire. Channelling that energy into one clear goal tends to serve you better than fighting every battle. Your strongest assets are courage, principle and the ability to learn quickly, and these grow when you pair them with patience.

3 Mind, emotions and inner life

The Moon's sign, house and nakshatra

Your Moon sits in Aquarius, in the eleventh house of friends, gains and networks. Aquarius is ruled by Saturn, and the Moon is neutral there, neither lifted nor weighed down. It is close to full, about 172 degrees from the Sun, so the Moon counts as a natural benefic in this chart.

The eleventh house is one of the most favourable places for the Moon. Traditional texts call it noble, polite and generous, with many friends and a fair prospect of gains. Modern writers stress supportive networks and steady growth, and add that the satisfaction from gains can be short-lived, so contentment matters as much as acquisition.

The Moon falls in the lunar mansion (nakshatra) of Purva Bhadrapada, ruled by Jupiter. The texts describe cleverness and a readiness to earn, together with an intense, devoted and persevering character. Jataka Parijata calls the native timid, while modern writers describe someone hard to win over but steady. Jupiter's benefic aspect on the Moon helps here. Jupiter itself sits in Gemini, its enemy sign, in the third house, so its support comes with some effort. The nakshatra is one factor among many, not a fixed fate.

Aspects and company of the Moon

Four planets aspect the Moon, and their natures shape its mood differently.

- Jupiter's aspect is benefic by nature. It brings a protective, reflective quality, and as lord of the ninth and twelfth houses it links the mind to faith and quiet reflection.
- Saturn's aspect is hard by nature, since Saturn is a natural malefic. As lord of the tenth and eleventh houses it adds a sober steadiness about work and money rather than fear.
- Rahu's aspect is unsettling by nature. It feeds restlessness and strong wants, which fits the restless streak some texts note in the Moon's sign.
- The Sun aspects the Moon, and the Moon aspects the Sun in return. The Sun is a natural malefic, so its aspect is firm rather than soft; as lord of the fifth house it links the mind to creativity and learning.

The Moon's sign lord, Saturn, sits in Taurus in the second house of money and family. Saturn is a friend in Taurus, so it is steady rather than commanding. Classical texts say the Moon's results come fully only when the Moon, its sign and that sign's lord are all strong, so here its gifts arrive with patience.

Moon yoga

The Moon also takes part in a Kemadruma pattern, which the texts link with a sensitive and sometimes sorrowful mind. Jupiter's aspect on the Moon softens it, and its fuller meaning is covered in the yogas part of this report.

Mercury and thinking style

Mercury sits in Virgo, in the sixth house, where it is exalted. This gives a precise, discerning and articulate mind with a gift for analysis, writing and the arts. It is not combust, being about 23 degrees from the Sun, and no aspect falls on it. Mercury is also the final dispositor of Mars and Jupiter, so its style runs through much of the chart.

The sixth house is a house of work and friction, so this strength shows through daily problem-solving rather than ease. Texts disagree on temper. Phaladeepika calls the native quick to anger; Saravali says not given to anger but often insulted. Modern writers describe a sharp, argumentative but effective problem-solver suited to analytical or service work.

In the navamsa (the divisional chart used for the finer detail of life) Mercury is debilitated in Pisces. Braha, a modern astrologer, notes that a planet exalted in the birth chart but debilitated in the navamsa gives very mixed results, so the mind's sharpness may come and go. Mercury's placement also forms what texts call a Viparita Raja yoga, which favours gain through hardship.

Emotional needs and patterns

Your emotional life runs on friendship, a sense of purpose and room to move. The Moon also rules the fourth house, so feeling at ease is tied to a settled base at home. Restless patterns tend to show when life turns routine or predictable, and the texts link this Moon with fluctuating fortunes. Steady routines, time with trusted friends and a clear sense of what is enough help more than chasing each new gain.

When this area is most active

The Mercury stretch from 7 January 2030 to 5 June 2032 is the period to watch for this area. Mercury rules the third and sixth houses and is a lord of a difficult house, so the tone is mixed and demanding: the mind is busy and tested, and this is not the easiest stretch. From 6 February 2037 to 9 July 2038, Mercury's period with the Moon as sub-lord is neutral in tone, with the Moon's fourth-house lordship bringing a more settled feeling.

4 Career and vocation

Your career house is Capricorn, the tenth from your rising sign of Aries, and it is ruled by Saturn. Saturn sits in Taurus in the second house, where it is a friend of its sign. As a natural malefic in this chart, Saturn works in a steady, demanding manner rather than quickly, but functionally it rules two houses that matter here: the tenth (career) and the eleventh (gains). Classical texts link a tenth lord in the second house to work that feeds wealth and family standing, and to recognition from people in authority. Modern astrologers name family trades, food and catering as the typical fields. Your lagna lord, Mars, sits in the ninth, a supportive trine, so the drive to work is sound.

The tenth house and its lord

No planet sits in Capricorn. Only Venus aspects it, from the fourth house. Venus is a natural benefic, and the classical text Saravali says a benefic aspect on the tenth makes working life pleasant. That rule is stated from the Moon rather than from the lagna, so treat it as a tentative, low-confidence support. It most likely shows up as a cooperative, agreeable working environment.

Career significators

The Sun. The Sun sits in Leo, its moolatrikona sign, in the fifth house of learning and creative skill. Strong by dignity, and lord of the fifth (a trine, a supportive house), it gives leadership and organising ability. Saravali links the Sun with notable deeds and a leading position. Raman reads organising capacity and a talent for public persuasion. Jataka Parijata sees a Sun in the fifth as service near a ruler, and modern astrologers add teaching authority. Because the Sun is a natural malefic here, its ambition needs discipline to turn into results.

The Moon. The Moon is your Atmakaraka, the planet of the soul in the chart. It sits in Aquarius in the eleventh house of gains, and it is exalted in the navamsa. Raman reads a Moon in the eleventh as a sign of good business profits. Saravali calls the Aquarius Moon an artisan, and Phaladeepika notes endurance on long journeys. The Moon is a natural benefic here.

The Amatyakaraka

Saturn is also the Amatyakaraka, the "minister" significator. Among the chart's chara karakas (the planets ranked by degree within their signs) it has the second-highest degree. This planet shows counsel, professional standing and the means by which you rise. Saturn is both the tenth lord and the minister, so career and advisory roles run through it. It sits in the fourth from the Moon, a kendra from the Atmakaraka, which modern astrologers read as an associate liked by people in authority. No weakening factor shows. Saturn is in a friend's sign, not debilitated, and no planet aspects it. Its role is therefore sound, though as a natural malefic it grows through steady effort. Classical texts differ on whether the minister is counted among seven or eight significators; the seven-count reading used here gives Saturn this role.

The Amatyakaraka points to leadership, advisory or service roles, which is where this planet's influence on your rise is most visible.

Suitable fields

Table 7. Profession indicators (Phaladeepika ch. 5)

Counted from	10th sign	Its lord	Lord's D9 sign	Indicator (D9 sign lord)	Classical field
10th from the lagna	Capricorn	Saturn	Cancer	Moon	Moon as the indicator: work connected with water and liquids, food and farming, textiles and clothing, travel or pilgrimage, caring roles and serving the public, often with women as clients or employers.
10th from the Moon	Scorpio	Mars	Taurus	Venus	Venus as the indicator: work in the arts, music, dance and design, beauty, fashion, jewellery and luxury goods, hospitality and food, and work that involves women or partnerships.
10th from the Sun	Taurus	Venus	Scorpio	Mars	Mars as the indicator: work that takes courage and technical skill, such as defence, police or security, engineering, metals and machinery, land and property, cooking or work with fire, and surgery or medicine.

Phaladeepika ch. 5: the source of livelihood is shown by the lord of the navamsa sign occupied by the 10th lord, counted from the lagna, the Moon and the Sun; the strongest of the three prevails.

The navamsa (D9), a zoomed-in chart, is the classical check on livelihood. The method takes the lord of the tenth, finds the navamsa sign it occupies, and reads that sign's lord as the indicator. Three starting points are used (lagna, Moon, Sun). The lagna reading comes first here.

- From the lagna: Saturn sits in Cancer in the navamsa, and Cancer's lord is the Moon. The Moon points to nurturing, public-facing or hospitality work, and to fields tied to food, water, travel, textiles and caring roles. Its exaltation in the navamsa suggests gains that come with less effort. Phaladeepika adds cattle, pilgrimage and the cloth trade.
- From the Moon: Mars, the tenth from the Moon, sits in navamsa Taurus. Venus indicates creative and aesthetic work: design, music, beauty, jewellery, hospitality and partnership-based work.
- From the Sun: Venus, the tenth from the Sun, sits in navamsa Scorpio. Mars indicates hands-on, technical and protective work: engineering, machinery, land, cooking, defence or security, and medicine or surgery.

Neither Venus nor Mars is strong in the navamsa, so their readings add colour rather than lead. Read together, the picture is nurturing and public-facing work, creative or relationship-based work, and practical or technical work. These are families of work, not job titles. This is one classical view among several, and effort and choice shape the career.

The D10 chart

Table 8. Dashamsa (D10) positions, Cancer lagna

Planet	D10 sign	D10 house	Dignity
Sun	Capricorn	7	Enemy's sign
Moon	Libra	4	Neutral sign

Planet	D10 sign	D10 house	Dignity
Mars	Capricorn	7	Exalted
Mercury	Leo	2	Friend's sign
Jupiter	Scorpio	5	Friend's sign
Venus	Leo	2	Enemy's sign
Saturn	Cancer	1	Enemy's sign
Rahu	Leo	2	-
Ketu	Aquarius	8	-

D10 houses are counted from the dashamsa lagna. The D10 is very sensitive to the birth time: a few minutes can change its lagna and every house in it.

The dashamsa (D10) divides each sign into ten parts and is the classical chart for work and recognition. It refines the career picture in the birth chart rather than replacing it. Here the D10 lagna is Cancer and the D10 tenth house is Aries, ruled by Mars. Mars sits in Capricorn in the D10 seventh house, where it is exalted. Mars is strong in D10 and is also the D10 tenth lord, so its periods are the ones the classical view links to professional growth. Growth is a likelihood, not a guaranteed promotion. The D10 tenth house itself is empty.

The D10 seventh house (own business) holds two planets, the Sun and Mars. The D10 sixth house (service) is empty. The texts treat whichever of these is more occupied as the path, so the lean is toward own business or independent work. This is a low-confidence reading to test against your own experience.

Birth-time caution: the D10 reading depends closely on the exact birth time. Your lagna sits 10.9 degrees into Aries, so an error of about 43 minutes would change the rising sign itself. The D10 lagna sits 62 per cent of the way through its division, so a few minutes' error is less likely to change it than near an edge, but the D10 detail should still be treated as supporting rather than decisive.

Working style

The pattern points to steady, long-term, accumulative work rather than quick leaps, with the tenth lord tied to family finances. Mercury, exalted in the sixth house of daily work, supports a good job with capable colleagues and an interest in healing (Braha). Mercury in Virgo is skilled in writing, poetry, and fine or mechanical arts, and is disposed to serve others (Saravali). Together with the D10 leaning toward independence, the likely style is a practical, service-minded skill, used on your own terms.

When this area is most active

Three stretches stand out for career matters:

- July to December 2028: Jupiter and Saturn both aspect the tenth house from the lagna. Classical astrologers treat this as a timing marker for career matters, a spotlight on work and standing rather than an event. It is the longest such spell in the listed years.
- January 2030 to June 2032: Mercury's own sub-period. It is an active stretch for work, but a demanding rather than best time. Mercury rules the third and sixth houses and sits in the sixth, so the emphasis falls on daily work, detail and skill-building rather than big moves.

- April 2036 to February 2037: the Sun's sub-period within Mercury's. This is supportive, because the Sun is a career significator here and rules the fifth, a trine house.

Other spells are set out in the Timeline.

5 Finance and wealth

Your money picture rests on several solid foundations. The lord of your gains house, Saturn, sits in your 2nd house of savings, which older texts read as wealth built slowly and kept carefully rather than won quickly. Jupiter and Mars form a recognised wealth combination (dhana yoga), and the Moon in your 11th house ties income to people and networks. The main caution is that several planets carry harder outcomes alongside the good ones, so earnings may arrive in uneven stretches before they settle.

Table 9. The wealth houses

House	Matters	Sign and lord	Planets there	What it says
2nd	Savings, family money, speech	Taurus; lord Venus in the 4th (Cancer, enemy)	Saturn	Savings grow slowly through patience; comforts are tied to home and property.
11th	Income and gains	Aquarius; lord Saturn in the 2nd (Taurus, friend)	Moon	Strongest income house: steady gains through people, authority and long-term work.
5th	Investments, intelligence, past merit	Leo; lord Sun in the 5th (Leo, moolatrikona)	Sun	Investments and calculated speculation suit you; keep money choices your own.
9th	Fortune and blessings	Sagittarius; lord Jupiter in the 3rd (Gemini, enemy)	Mars, Ketu	Fortune and blessings come through your own effort and careful saving.
12th	Expenses and outflow	Pisces; lord Jupiter in the 3rd (Gemini, enemy)	none	Spending needs a regular check so outgoings keep pace with gains.

The 2nd house: savings, family money and speech

The 2nd house is ruled by Venus, which sits in your 4th house of home, property and comforts. Venus here is read as supporting wealth tied to home and land, and comforts are described as prosperous. Venus is in an enemy sign and is pressed by the malefic glances of Mars and Saturn, so the comfort comes with some friction. Saturn itself occupies the 2nd. Older texts describe early strain on money, with hard work for modest return, but also later accumulation and gains often away from home. Saturn in Taurus, a friendly sign for it, leans toward the favourable reading: patient, steady building of security. Speech tends to be careful and measured.

The 11th house: income and gains

Saturn, lord of the 11th, sits in the 2nd in a friendly sign. A classical reading of this placement is a strong one: a dhana yoga promising abundant wealth, several sources of income and family assets put to use. Saturn is alone there, so no harsh company dulls it. The Moon, a benefic in this chart, occupies the 11th, so income grows through clients, people and community networks, though the Moon's own nature can bring some rise and fall to earnings.

Three glances reach this house. The Sun, from the 5th, links income to authority, government or competitive work. It is a natural malefic, so its manner is hard, but its strong dignity in Leo lets it bring recognition. Jupiter's benefic glance brings steady, honourable income through institutions and good work, though Jupiter sits in an enemy sign, which reduces its share. Saturn's glance is hard by nature, yet since Saturn owns this house the gains are slow and durable, from property, industry or long-term work.

The 5th house: investments and speculation

The 5th is ruled by the Sun, placed in Leo in its moolatrikona dignity, a strong and well-supported position. Modern astrologers read this as success in investment and a liking for calculated speculation. Some older texts take a sterner view, describing limited wealth from the Sun here, while others say you may be rich though authority can take the wealth. Weighing these, the dignity leans toward the favourable side, but speculative gains are best approached with care, and investment choices remain yours to make.

The 9th house: fortune and blessings

Jupiter rules the 9th and sits in the 3rd in Gemini, an enemy sign, joined by Rahu. Older texts count this lordship as wealthy, and a modern astrologer adds that you advance your own fortune rather than relying on family means. Mars, your lagna lord, occupies the 9th in its friendly sign of Sagittarius. A modern astrologer calls this affluent, and a lagna lord in a house of fortune supports the chart. Ketu also sits here: older texts link it with indigence, while a modern astrologer says it makes for frugality and steady saving, and some traditions tie its wealth to foreign sources. Jupiter's benefic glance onto the 9th adds good fortune. Fortune here is best read as coming through your own effort and careful saving.

The 12th house: expenses

The 12th is ruled by Jupiter, which sits in the 3rd house. Jupiter is a natural benefic and also lord of the 9th, so its good side stays strong. Yet the expense lord sits in an enemy sign and shares its place with Rahu. An older text reads Jupiter in the 3rd as a sign of indigence, and others tie the outcome to the strength of the 3rd house's lord. Outgoings are best kept under regular review so that they do not run ahead of the gains.

Dhana yoga

A recognised wealth combination is present through the mutual glance of Jupiter and Mars, linking the 9th lord and the lagna lord. Older texts associate such pairs with affluence, and this one speaks to earnings, savings and gains together. Saturn's placement in the 2nd with lordship of the 11th is a second classic form of the same kind of combination.

Gains against expenses

The gains side is the stronger one. The 11th has its lord in the 2nd, the Moon within it, and three glances reaching it, while the expense house's lord sits in an enemy sign beside Rahu. On balance, earnings have more support than outgoings, and savings can build over time.

Overall

The chart favours wealth built steadily through patience, networks and long-term work rather than a quick windfall. Its early strain, the uneven pattern of gains, and the enemy-sign placements of Jupiter and Venus mean the path is slower and asks for discipline. Decisions about money, investments and large purchases stay with you.

When this area is most active

Two double-transit stretches on the 11th house fall from late August to early October 2029, and from early May to late September 2030. Both are classical markers for gains and good moments to review income plans. Mercury's sub-period under Venus, lord of the 2nd, runs from June 2033 to April 2036; here Venus is read as a steady, neutral influence on money.

6 Health and vitality

This is traditional astrology, not medical advice. It points to the rhythms of rest, routine and care that classical texts link with vitality, and it is no substitute for a doctor.

Table 10. Traditional body correspondences

House	Matters	Sign	Body area (by house)	Body area (by sign)	Planets there	Care note
1st	Body and vitality	Aries	Head	Head	none	Rest well and keep your energy steady; avoid pushing through fatigue.
6th	Daily health and routine	Virgo	Abdomen and waist	Abdomen and waist	Mercury	Keep meals, sleep and daily routine regular; small, steady habits matter most.
8th	Recovery and resilience	Scorpio	Pelvic region	Pelvic region	none	Give recovery its time; steady rest after strain supports resilience.
12th	Rest and sleep	Pisces	Feet	Feet	none	Protect sleep and quiet time; regular rest is a traditional priority.

Traditional kalapurusha correspondences (houses and signs from head to feet), general regions only. This is traditional astrology, not medical advice; health decisions stay with you and your doctor.

Overall constitution

Aries rising gives a forceful, active build. Its ruler, Mars, sits in Sagittarius in the 9th house, a friendly sign and a house of fortune and faith. The texts read this as stamina and a fighting spirit that keeps going under pressure. Mars also rules the 8th house of recovery, so the same drive can run hot, and regular rest is what keeps it sustainable. Ketu, a natural malefic in this chart, casts its aspect on the rising sign, which asks for pacing and steadiness rather than bursts of effort.

Mercury, lord of the 6th house of daily health, sits in its own 6th house in Virgo and is exalted there. Classical texts call this Harsha yoga, linked with a sound constitution and the ability to overcome obstacles. The modern astrologer Raman cautions that the 6th lord's difficult side is softened rather than removed, so good daily habits do the real work.

The Moon, a natural benefic in this chart, sits in the 11th house and supports steady vitality and good spirits. The Sun sits in a strong position in Leo, in the 5th house, and gives warmth and vigour. Because the Sun is a natural malefic here, that vigour comes with intensity, so it is worth keeping the body from overheating through overwork.

Sensitivities from the 6th, 8th and 12th houses

- 6th house (daily health): Mercury's strong constitution comes with a tendency, in the classical view, to carry tension and nervous strain. Unhurried routines and regular breaks ease this.
- 8th house (recovery): Mars, its lord, sits in the 9th, and no planets occupy the 8th. Saturn's aspect on it is read by the astrologer Braha as supportive of resilience over the long run.
- 12th house (rest): Its lord Jupiter sits in the 3rd house, and no planets occupy the 12th. The classical BPHS links this with a need for self-care and quiet time, and sleep is the natural place to start.

Periods to take more care

Two stretches deserve attention. From late November 2027 to late February 2028, Jupiter and Saturn both sit over the 6th house, a classical timing marker for daily health and routine. The texts treat this as a time to keep rest and habits steady and to take things at a gentle pace. From July 2038 to July 2039, the Mercury-Mars sub-period is led by the ruler of the 6th house and supported by Mars, lord of the rising sign. It tends to favour steady effort, and rest still matters.

7 Relationships, marriage and partner

The seventh house and its lord

The seventh house is Libra, the house of partnership and marriage, and its lord Venus sits in the fourth house, in Cancer. A lord placed in a kendra (a pillar house: 1, 4, 7 or 10) is a good sign for marriage, and this is the main support in this area. Raman, Braha and Rath read a happy marriage, comforts and a supportive home; the classical text BPHS describes a truthful, intelligent and religious person with an independent-minded partner. Venus is a natural benefic in this chart, so its own nature is kind. Its position is less comfortable, though: it sits in an enemy's sign and is aspected by Mars and by Saturn. The texts link that kind of affliction to strain in domestic harmony. Read this as a theme of patience and steady effort in the relationship, not a fixed outcome.

No planet occupies the seventh house, and two planets aspect it. Jupiter's aspect comes from the third house as a fifth-house aspect, which the classical scheme counts at half strength, so it is real but moderate support. Modern and classical sources that read it describe a wise, ethical and supportive partner, shared values, and a marriage that can weather difficulties. Rahu's aspect on the seventh is lighter still, since the texts disagree on whether the nodes aspect at all, so give it little weight.

The Darakaraka and the navamsa

Mars is the Darakaraka, the planet with the lowest degree in its sign, which the texts use to describe the partner. Mars sits in Sagittarius, a sign friendly to it, in the ninth house, and Jupiter's aspect supports it. The partner may bring drive, directness, a sense of purpose and a strong independent streak. Mars is a natural malefic, so its manner is forceful rather than soft: friction in partnership is something to channel, not a sign of trouble. Some schemes name a different planet as Darakaraka, and the classical texts record both views, so take this as one reading.

The navamsa (D9) is the divisional chart the classical texts assign to the spouse, and modern authors widen it to shared values and the inner self. Here the navamsa seventh house is Capricorn, ruled by Saturn, which sits in the first house of the navamsa in Cancer. No planets occupy the navamsa seventh. Saturn in the first house links the partner closely with the self. The classical Saravali describes a Saturn-ruled seventh as a more serious, mature and reserved partner, sometimes older, with harder qualities that tend to grow on a relationship over time. Venus, the lord of the main chart's seventh, sits in Scorpio in the fifth house of the navamsa, a trine, though in an ordinary sign. That supports the marriage promise without the extra strength of its own sign or exaltation. The navamsa refines the main chart rather than replacing it, so where the two point in different directions the result is mixed, not one side chosen.

Reference	Mars counted from it	Manglik?
Lagna	9th house	No
Moon	11th house	No
Venus	6th house	No
Result	Absent from all three	-

Manglik houses used: 1, 2, 4, 7, 8, 12.

Mars is in the ninth house from the lagna, the eleventh from the Moon and the sixth from Venus. The Manglik houses are 1, 2, 4, 7, 8 and 12, and none of these three reference points puts Mars in one of them. Manglik is therefore absent: Mars is counted from none of the three reference points. Mars does carry softening factors, since it is the lagna lord and Jupiter aspects it, and these would cancel the dosha if it applied. Because no reference point counts it, there is nothing to cancel. Modern astrologers also regard the dosha as over-applied, and the classical lists differ on which houses count, so it is only one factor among many in matching.

When this area is most active

Two stretches bring Jupiter onto the seventh house itself, which the texts treat as a timing marker for partnership: December 2028 to March 2029, and October 2029 to January 2030. Saturn aspects the house from Aries during both, and the texts link that aspect with slower, more serious going, so both stretches favour patience and careful choices. From June 2033 to April 2036 the Mercury-Venus sub-period is ruled by Venus, the seventh lord, which brings partnership themes to the front in a neutral tone. These are timing markers, not dates on which anything has to happen.

Friendships (eleventh house)

The eleventh house is Aquarius, ruled by Saturn from the second house, and the Moon sits in it. Raman reads the Moon here as a sign of many friends. Jupiter in the third house is read the other way: Raman gives it few friends. The sources disagree, so the honest picture is a warm, sociable temperament whose close circle is more selective than wide. Mars in Sagittarius carries a warning about rivals in the classical Brihat Jataka and in Raman. Treat it as friction to manage, not a fixed outcome.

8 Family, home, siblings, children and education

Family of origin (2nd house)

Your second house is Taurus, ruled by Venus, and Venus sits in your fourth house, the house of home and mother. Support and resources from the family you were born into tend to come through the home and the mother more than through wider relatives. Venus is a natural benefic, but it is in Cancer, a sign where it is not fully at ease, so the warmth is real and can carry some friction.

Saturn sits in the second house. Some classical and modern texts describe this as a family life that feels sober, restricted or lonely, with less outside support than people often expect. Saturn is a natural malefic, but it rules your 10th and 11th houses (career and gains). For you, the effect is more likely to show as self-reliance and a serious attitude toward family duties than as open conflict. Saturn sits in a friendly sign, which keeps that effect steady.

Mother and home (4th house, Moon)

Your fourth house is Cancer, and its ruler, the Moon, sits in your 11th house in Aquarius. Venus is also in the 4th, which is one of the warmer placements for home life: a comfortable, attractive home, pleasant surroundings and a close bond with the mother (Raman; PanchangBodh). Some texts add that home life can see recurring domestic friction, and that note comes from Venus sitting in its enemy sign. You may recognise both sides.

The Moon is a natural benefic in this chart, even though it is waning. Its place in the 11th is read as generosity and gains that can come through property or vehicles, and Raman describes the mother as fortunate. The Moon is also aspected by Saturn and Rahu, and some classical texts read that as strain in the mother's life or in the comfort of the home. Treat that as a point to look after, not as a forecast. Jupiter, which signifies the mother, sits in the 3rd with Rahu, which is another reason to give the mother's welfare steady attention.

Saturn and Mars both aspect the 4th. Saturn's aspect is read by modern writers as restraint and a sober home, and Mars's aspect as heat, friction and a traditional caution about vehicles. Mars is your lagna lord, which softens its effect, so the reading leans toward energy and drive for property and home improvement rather than trouble.

Father and fortune (9th house)

The ninth house is Sagittarius, ruled by Jupiter, which sits in the 3rd. Jupiter is a natural benefic and a trikona lord, and its aspect from the 3rd falls on the 9th. Raman reads that as devotion to parents and care for the father's well-being. Jupiter is in Gemini, a sign where it is less at ease, and it shares its house with Rahu, so its support for the father link is a little muted.

Mars and Ketu sit in the 9th. Classical texts give this placement a harder reading for the father relationship: a headstrong or strained bond in Mars's case, and a distant or difficult bond in Ketu's. Read these as traditional cautions about the relationship, not as a forecast, and note that Jupiter's aspect works against them.

Siblings (3rd house, Mars)

The third house is Gemini, ruled by Mercury, which sits in your 6th house in Virgo, where it is exalted. Mercury is a natural benefic, and its role as lord of the 3rd and 6th houses gives a mixed picture. Classical texts say this placement brings friction with siblings and maternal relatives, but also considerable wealth and a strong competitive drive. Some texts read a 3rd lord in the 6th as a yoga that turns difficulty into gain, so sibling tension often comes with a good ability to manage it.

Rahu sits in the 3rd. Its place there is among the best for courage, initiative and personal success, but it is also linked with distance or friction with siblings. Classical writing on brothers is harsher, describing Rahu here as hostile to brothers. Treat that as a reason to take care in sibling relationships, not as a verdict. Jupiter also sits in the 3rd, and classical texts say siblings bring happiness and help the person's fortune, though its enemy sign and Rahu mean that some texts see sibling relationships as sometimes distant.

Mars aspects the 3rd from the 9th. As your lagna lord, its aspect adds courage and drive to bonds with brothers, sisters and close friends.

Children (5th house, Sun)

The fifth house is Leo, ruled by the Sun, which sits in its own sign with moolatrikona strength. The Sun is a natural malefic, so its influence is hard in manner, but as lord of a trikona house it carries children, intelligence and creativity. Classical texts make the children result depend on whether benefic or malefic influences act on that lord. Here the Moon, a natural benefic, aspects the 5th, which is read as a caring and nurturing influence on children.

Venus, the planet that signifies children, is in the 4th, a placement that suggests a warm and nurturing bond with children rather than a particular pattern. A few older texts are more cautious about the number of children. It is best to read this as a strong capacity for family life, with the outcome shaped by many other factors.

Education (4th, 5th, Mercury, Jupiter)

Learning here draws on several parts of the chart. The Sun, lord of the 5th, sits in its own house, which strengthens intelligence and merit. Jupiter in Gemini gives a scholarly, eloquent mind, with knowledge expressed through words, writing and teaching. Its enemy sign and Rahu add some restlessness. Mercury, the planet of learning, is exalted in the 6th, which suggests study taken on with discipline and competitive drive, though some texts note harsh speech and friction. Mars aspects the 4th from the 9th, which modern readings link to a technical, practical bent in study and property matters.

When this area is most active

From August 2024 to June 2027 is the Saturn-Rahu sub-period you are in now, with Rahu in the 3rd. It is active for sibling and family matters, but it is a node and not a supportive force by itself. This sub-period ends in June 2027, while the wider Saturn period runs to January 2030. From June 2027 to January 2030 is the Saturn-Jupiter sub-period, with Jupiter as a trikona lord sitting in the 3rd, which supports the sibling and father themes. From September 2030 to February 2031, Jupiter and Saturn both fall on the 4th house, a classical timing marker for home and mother. Read these as periods to pay attention to, not as predicted events.

9 Spirituality, the 8th and 12th houses, hidden talents and foreign links

The 8th house: change and hidden matters

The 8th house (Scorpio) is the house of transformation, the unseen and matters we cannot fully control. Its lord, Mars, sits in the 9th house, the house of faith and fortune. Mars is also the lord of your rising sign, so its place in a trikona (the 1st, 5th and 9th houses, the most fortunate ones) supports the chart. Mars is a natural malefic, which gives it heat and force.

The classical texts, along with Raman and Braha, are mainly cautious about this link: fortune from elders or teachers may come slowly, and the 9th house may be strained. Bhavartha Ratnakara, a classical work, gives the opposite view: when the 8th and 9th lords join or aspect each other, fame and power can come through change, in the 8th lord's period. Jupiter, the 9th lord, aspects Mars, so this older view applies here. Raman adds that an 8th lord placed in a kendra or trikona can make its hard results sharper. Taken together, the chart points to fortune that arrives through change and a searching, independent spiritual outlook. Saturn's gaze on the 8th house asks for endurance and steady habits.

The 9th house: dharma, faith and teachers

The 9th house (Sagittarius) is ruled by Jupiter, which sits in house 3 in Gemini, its enemy sign, joined there by Rahu. Mars and Ketu occupy the 9th. Jupiter, a natural benefic, aspects the 9th from house 3. The texts link that aspect with piety, pilgrimage and respect for teachers, and with protection and wisdom. It is hopeful, though not a guarantee. Because Jupiter is in an enemy sign, its favourable side arrives with effort. It also rules the 12th, so its results are mixed: good for faith, more demanding for quiet withdrawal.

Saravali says that when Jupiter does not own the 9th, fortune tends to come from abroad. Here Jupiter owns it, so fortune is more likely to be rooted at home. Mars in the 9th makes belief active: a person who stands up for principles and causes. Some modern astrologers add that Jupiter in house 3 lets faith grow through personal experience rather than inherited belief. Mars and Ketu share the 9th, about 5 degrees apart; Frawley, a modern astrologer, says Ketu can sharpen a strong Mars.

Ketu in the 9th: an independent, questioning path

Ketu is a shadow node, not a planet, and it acts through its sign lord, Jupiter. Classical texts are cautious about a node in the 9th for fortune and righteousness. Modern astrologers read a more independent picture: a sceptical attitude toward tradition and teachers, and a fortune built through one's own choices.

Two things lean supportive. Ketu sits in Sagittarius, where traditions differ on its dignity: exalted in one teacher's view and among most modern astrologers, moolatrikona in Bhavartha Ratnakara, debilitated in Jatakalankaram. Raman's note on Ketu in this sign is among his most favourable: harmony, education, religious discussion and moral elevation. Uttara Kalamrita holds that a node in the 9th with a trikona lord gives prosperity, and Ketu's sign lord, Jupiter, is a trikona lord. Ketu here describes a natural seeker with clear insight, and formal study is worth keeping up.

The 12th house

The 12th house (Pisces) is empty. Its lord, Jupiter, sits in house 3, as described above. Mercury and Mars both aspect the 12th. BPHS says sibling happiness is limited and the person is focused on self-care, and Raman describes a quiet, timid manner. Braha alone adds strong intuition, which is the most useful note for spiritual life here.

Mercury's aspect brings intellect, communication and skill to a quiet house, and the texts read it as keeping one settled in one's own country. Mars's aspect brings energy and drive into that house, which asks for rest and a steady routine.

Karakamsha and the Atmakaraka

The Moon is the Atmakaraka, the planet with the highest degree in its sign (25 degrees in Aquarius), and it stands for the soul's core drive. In the navamsa (D9, the divisional chart read for inner nature), the Moon is exalted in Taurus, and that sign is the karakamsha. Classical texts look to the 12th from it, Aries, which holds no planet in this chart, so that idea stays a background theme.

The Moon is not combust, sits 172 degrees from the Sun, and is joined by no planet. Jupiter's benefic aspect supports it; the Sun, Saturn and Rahu aspects ask for patience. Raman describes the Moon in Aquarius as esoteric and mystical. Some modern astrologers hold that a soul-significator with benefic support points toward release and a pull toward holy places, while one with malefic aspects suggests a more advanced soul whose growth comes through harder lessons. This chart has both. Read it as the area of growth, not as bad luck.

Hidden talents

Several threads point the same way: strong intuition (Braha's reading of the 12th lord), a defence of principles and causes (Mars in the 9th), faith built from experience (Jupiter in house 3), a natural seeker's clear insight (Ketu in Sagittarius), and a soul-level drive (the Moon as Atmakaraka). Together they suggest a person who tests traditions before accepting them, and whose spiritual life is built from personal experience more than from inherited ritual.

Foreign links

Jupiter owns the 9th, and the texts see fortune staying close to home. The 12th house, which the texts link with travel, is aspected by Mercury, which they read as keeping one settled in one's own country. Rahu sits with Jupiter in house 3. The chart leans toward roots and home over long travel abroad.

When this area is most active

From November 2026 to January 2027, Jupiter's double transit over the 9th house puts faith and teachers in focus. From June 2027 to January 2030, the Saturn-Jupiter sub-period is supportive for this area: Jupiter rules the 9th and 12th and is a significator here, a good time for study and guidance. From June 2032 to June 2033, the Mercury-Ketu sub-period is active for this area but not supportive by itself, since Ketu sits in the 9th; it is a time to test beliefs and let practice prove them.

10 Yogas and doshas

Two yoga patterns in this chart are built on the lords of the lagna and the angles and trines, and they carry real weight. Two others are present but softened. Among the doshas, one does not apply, one applies only in its popular form, and two are read more lightly than their names suggest.

Table 12. Yogas present, with their weight

PVR (11.7.2) says the conjunction of a quadrant lord and a trine lord is found in many charts and its magnitude depends on strength and closeness.

Raja yoga: links between the angle and trine lords

Raja yoga is the classic link between a lord of an angle (houses 1, 4, 7 or 10) and a lord of a trine (houses 1, 5 or 9). This chart has two such links, and they differ in weight.

The Sun and Moon link is the cleaner one. The Sun, lord of the 5th, sits in Leo, its moolatrikona sign. The Moon, lord of the 4th, sits in Aquarius and is neutral there. They aspect each other from opposite houses. The Sun is a natural malefic in this chart and the Moon a natural benefic, and both still carry the link. The Moon is strong mainly in the navamsa, where it is exalted, so its side is moderate. Neither lord owns a difficult house, so nothing reduces the link.

The Jupiter and Mars link is more contested. Mars, the lagna lord, sits in a trine (the 9th), which supports the chart, but it also owns the 8th house. Jupiter, lord of the 9th, owns the 12th and sits in an enemy sign. Because each lord owns a house of difficulty, the texts disagree on whether this link forms at all. Read as potential, it points to rising responsibility through effort, mostly in the periods of Jupiter and Mars.

Read this as potential for rising responsibility and recognition, not guaranteed power or wealth. Many charts carry some such link, so it counts most where the planets are strong, which is the Sun-Moon pairing here.

Viparita Raja (Harsha): resilience

Mercury, lord of the 6th, sits in the 6th house itself, in exalted Virgo. The strict form of this yoga, which Raman and P.V.R. Narasimha Rao require, is met. The traditions read it as resilience: winning against competition and opposition, often after a struggle. Raman warns that a trouble lord's harm is softened rather than removed, so expect progress that is earned rather than easy. Mercury's navamsa placement is weak, which keeps the yoga in its moderate form. Some texts also ask for malefic influence on the 6th house, and there is none here. The periods of Mercury are when this theme shows.

Kemadruma: formed but cancelled

Kemadruma arises when no planet other than the Sun sits in the 2nd or 12th house from the Moon. Those houses from the Moon, Pisces and Capricorn, are empty, so the basic pattern forms. Most texts then cancel it when a planet sits in an angle counted from the lagna or from the Moon. Both apply here: Venus is in the 4th from the lagna, and Saturn is in the 7th from the Moon. Jupiter's aspect on the Moon softens it further.

Old texts link the pattern with hardship, dependence on others and having to work hard for results. In this chart it reads far more lightly: periods of feeling unsupported and needing to build one's own resources, paired with the chart's strengths. Those themes would be read in the periods of the Moon and Saturn, the two planets that form and cancel it. Does that match your experience?

Dhana: capacity to earn

A Dhana link is present in the form that joins the lords of the 1st, 2nd, 5th, 9th and 11th houses. Here Jupiter (9th lord) and Mars (1st lord) aspect each other mutually. The classic core, the 2nd lord (Venus) and the 11th lord (Saturn), is not part of this link, and Jupiter sits in an enemy sign. The yoga therefore points to a capacity to earn and build resources, shown most in the periods of Jupiter and Mars. The classical text Bhavartha Ratnakara says most charts reach modest rather than great wealth, and that is the right expectation here.

Manglik (Kuja) dosha: absent

Mars is the 9th house from the lagna, the 11th from the Moon and the 6th from Venus. The dosha counts Mars in houses 1, 2, 4, 7, 8 and 12, with the 2nd included in some traditions. From none of the three reference points does Mars fall in those houses, so the chart is not Manglik from the lagna, the Moon or Venus. Its meaning for marriage is covered under Relationships.

Kaal Sarp: absent

Kaal Sarp requires all seven planets to sit on one side of the Rahu-Ketu axis. Here the Moon and Saturn sit outside it, so the pattern does not form. It is a modern idea absent from the classical texts, and Raman and K.N. Rao gave it little weight in individual charts. Nothing further follows from it.

Pitra dosha: popular form only

Popular astrology software flags this dosha here through two points: Ketu sits with Mars in the 9th house, and Jupiter, lord of the 9th, sits with Rahu. The classical form, built on the Sun and the 5th house, does not form. The Sun sits in the 5th in its strong sign of Leo, with Ketu's aspect falling on it but no node or Saturn beside it.

Do not tell anyone that their ancestors cursed them. Ancestral rites can be mentioned as an optional family tradition of remembrance, not as a required remedy. Classical texts link the dosha with questions of children, and nothing in this chart is a prediction on that subject.

Jupiter-Rahu combination

Jupiter and Rahu are conjoined in Gemini, about 7.7 degrees apart. Popular astrology treats this as a dosha that clouds Jupiter's wisdom and counsel, a combination the texts associate with poor judgement, ignored advice and being misled. The classical texts do not define it as a yoga; a Jupiter-Rahu link appears only in their progeny combinations. The modern writer Rath reads it as advice going unheeded and being deceived in the areas the afflicted house rules.

Read it as a reason to check advice carefully and avoid blind trust, not as a sign of bad character or misfortune. Rahu's sub-period, running to June 2027, is the stretch to watch for this, and a good moment to test the advice you have received against what has actually happened.

Dosha	Status	Comment (from the calculator)
Manglik (Kuja)	Absent	Mars is not in a Manglik house from the lagna, the Moon or Venus
Kaal Sarp	Absent	2 planets lie outside the Rahu-Ketu axis (Moon, Saturn), so neither the full nor the partial form applies
Pitra (ancestral)	Present	Flags met: lights or nodes with mars saturn: Ketu+Mars; ninth lord with malefic: Rahu
Guru-Chandal	Present	Flag only; no reference points or cancellations computed
Shrapit	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Angarak	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Ghata	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Ganda Moola	Absent	Not formed in this chart

How timing works

Vimshottari dasha is a fixed cycle of planetary periods that adds up to 120 years. The first period is set by the lord of the Moon's birth star. Your Moon is in Purva Bhadrapada, which Jupiter rules, so Jupiter's period came first, with about 9 years and 4 months still to run at birth. Each major period (mahadasha) is split into smaller sub-periods (antardasha), each ruled by one of the nine planets. A period brings forward what its planet rules, the house it sits in, and the planets it joins or is aspected by. Slow planets such as Saturn and Jupiter add a second layer by moving through the signs, and their effects are felt most when a period of the same planet is running.

Table 14. Vimshottari mahadashas

Mahadasha	From	To	Age	Planet's role in this chart
Jupiter	3 Sep 2001 (birth)	7 Jan 2011	0-9	Lord of the 9th and 12th; enemy's sign in the 3rd; with Rahu
Saturn (now)	7 Jan 2011	7 Jan 2030	9-28	Lord of the 10th and 11th; friend's sign in the 2nd; Amatyakaraka
Mercury	7 Jan 2030	7 Jan 2047	28-45	Lord of the 3rd and 6th; exalted in the 6th
Ketu	7 Jan 2047	7 Jan 2054	45-52	Node in the 9th (Sagittarius); acts for its sign lord Jupiter; lord of the lagna nakshatra
Venus	7 Jan 2054	7 Jan 2074	52-72	Lord of the 2nd and 7th; enemy's sign in the 4th
Sun	7 Jan 2074	8 Jan 2080	72-78	Lord of the 5th; moolatrikona in the 5th
Moon	8 Jan 2080	7 Jan 2090	78-88	Lord of the 4th; neutral sign in the 11th; Atmakaraka
Mars	7 Jan 2090	7 Jan 2097	88-95	Lord of the 1st and 8th (lagna lord); friend's sign in the 9th; with Ketu
Rahu	7 Jan 2097	8 Jan 2115	95-113	Node in the 3rd (Gemini); acts for its sign lord Mercury

Balance at birth: Jupiter 9.34 years. Ages are completed years; Vimshottari years of 365.25 days.

Past periods: validation checks

These are checks to hold against your own life, not claims about what happened.

The Jupiter period (Sep 2001 to Jan 2011, your first nine years) often coincides with early years of learning and family support, with some early worries. Jupiter rules the 9th, a house of fortune and faith, and also the 12th, a house of expenses and withdrawal. It sits in Gemini, a sign where it is less at ease. The classical texts link Jupiter with the mother and, for some, with children, so the early family picture is a natural place to check. The texts also say that when this planet is weakened, its harder results come in the opening years and the later part improves. Does that match your childhood?

The current period: Saturn (Jan 2011 to Jan 2030)

Saturn is in Taurus, in the 2nd house, a sign where it is at home and friendly with Venus. It rules the 10th (career and public standing) and the 11th (gains and networks). Saturn is a natural malefic in this chart, so its aspects on the Moon and on Venus are hard in manner, but it carries the career and gains houses, which matter most here. The chart also marks Saturn as the minister planet (Amatyakaraka), which the classical texts link with one's profession and with rising through steady work.

The overall expectation is a long, slow period of responsibility. Results tend to come in steps through effort rather than in leaps. The classical texts describe Saturn periods as heavy in general and strongly dependent on the chart. Here the friendly sign and the career and gains houses lean toward steady reward. Saturn's testing side, since the classical rules count a lord of the 3rd, 6th or 11th as a testing ruler, asks for patience, and the reward comes slowly.

The period asks for extra care of health and vitality, especially joints, chronic and wind-type complaints, and steady rest. This is a general note, not medical advice. Decisions about money, property, health and family stay with you. A Kemadruma pattern in the chart is cancelled by Jupiter's aspect on the Moon, so it adds nothing heavy here.

Sub-periods of the Saturn period

Table 15. Sub-periods (antardashas) within the Saturn mahadasha

Sub-period	From	To	Sub-lord's role and tone
Saturn-Saturn	7 Jan 2011	10 Jan 2014	Rules 10, 11, in the 2nd: kendra lord, lord of 3/6/11; mixed or demanding
Saturn-Mercury	10 Jan 2014	19 Sep 2016	Rules 3, 6, in the 6th: lord of a dusthana (6/8/12), lord of 3/6/11; mixed or demanding
Saturn-Ketu	19 Sep 2016	29 Oct 2017	In the 9th: node; acts through its sign lord Jupiter
Saturn-Venus	29 Oct 2017	29 Dec 2020	Rules 2, 7, in the 4th: kendra lord; neutral
Saturn-Sun	29 Dec 2020	11 Dec 2021	Rules 5, in the 5th: trikona lord; supportive
Saturn-Moon	11 Dec 2021	12 Jul 2023	Rules 4, in the 11th: kendra lord; neutral
Saturn-Mars	12 Jul 2023	20 Aug 2024	Rules 1, 8, in the 9th: lagna lord, lord of a dusthana (6/8/12); supportive
Saturn-Rahu (now)	20 Aug 2024	27 Jun 2027	In the 3rd: node; acts through its sign lord Mercury
Saturn-Jupiter	27 Jun 2027	7 Jan 2030	Rules 9, 12, in the 3rd: trikona lord, lord of a dusthana (6/8/12); supportive

Tone is from the sub-lord's house rulership for this lagna; the mahadasha lord colours every sub-period.

Past sub-periods, as validation checks:

Saturn-Saturn (Jan 2011 to Jan 2014) is Saturn's own sub-period, which opens the period. The texts treat it as a heavy start, with a favourable side that rests on the friendly sign and the career and gains houses. It often coincides with a slow, demanding first stretch. Does that fit those years?

Saturn-Mercury (Jan 2014 to Sep 2016). Mercury is exalted but sits in the 6th. The texts describe early gains in reputation, work and learning, followed by strain on health and setbacks in projects. Does that match your experience of those years?

Saturn-Ketu (Sep 2016 to Oct 2017). The most unsettled of the early sub-periods. Ketu sits in the 8th from Saturn, a testing position, and the texts link this stretch with family quarrels, worry and setbacks at work. Their advice is simplicity and careful health habits.

Saturn-Venus (Oct 2017 to Dec 2020). A mixed stretch. The favourable side is marriage, family, comforts and goodwill from relatives, which the texts give to Venus. The heavier side is linked to Venus sitting in an enemy sign, so physical strain is the caution here. Venus and Saturn give each other's results in their shared periods, so both planets' themes show in this stretch.

Saturn-Sun (Dec 2020 to Dec 2021). The Sun is strong here, in its moolatrikona zone in the 5th, so the favourable side leads: better standing with officials and employers, and steadier family life. Saturn and the Sun are natural enemies, which the texts usually read as hard, and a strong Sun softens that. Does that match your memory?

Saturn-Moon (Dec 2021 to Jul 2023). Mixed. The Moon, the chart's self-planet (Atmakaraka), sits in the 11th and rules the 4th. The texts give it home comforts, conveyances and friends, and also link it with family strain and emotional heaviness. It often coincides with a sensitive stretch, warm at home and worried at the same time.

Saturn-Mars (Jul 2023 to Aug 2024). Mars sits in the 9th, a house of fortune, which supports property and energetic work. Mars also rules the 8th, and the texts read this sub-period as high-friction: quarrels, strain with siblings and partners, and a need for health caution around heat and fire. Mars is the classical marker of the spouse, so partner matters are a natural check.

The sub-period running now:

Saturn-Rahu (Aug 2024 to Jun 2027). Rahu sits in the 3rd, in Gemini, joined with Jupiter. Rahu rules no house of its own, so it takes on the lordships of the planet it joins (Jupiter's 9th and 12th) and the nature of its sign lord, Mercury. The 3rd is one of Rahu's better places: courage, initiative and a strong will, at some cost to harmony with siblings. The stretch is mixed. The favourable side is initiative, skill-building and money through effort. The cautious side is quarrels, mental strain, friction with officials and the need to watch spending. The closing phase of Sade Sati is running alongside, and so is the Rahu yogini (Sankata), so Rahu's themes are strong until mid-2027. Hold off on large commitments and keep money decisions simple.

Saturn-Jupiter (Jun 2027 to Jan 2030). This is the most supportive stretch of the next few years. Jupiter rules the 9th (fortune, teachers, faith) and the 12th, is a lord of a trine (the fortune houses 1, 5 and 9), and sits in the 2nd from Saturn, a good house for it. It is in an enemy sign, which limits its full measure, and it shares its place with Rahu, which the texts read as friction with officials and setbacks in projects. Jupiter and Mars form a Raja link (the classical pattern for rising responsibility and recognition) and a Dhana link (capacity to earn). The texts promise capacity, not wealth. Expect steady recognition and a sense of rising responsibility, with the cautions above. Its double-transit stretches, described below, are the densest of the decade.

The Mercury period ahead (Jan 2030 to Jan 2047)

Mercury sits in the 6th, in Virgo, where it is exalted and in its own sign at once. It rules the 3rd and the 6th. The classical texts describe the start of a Mercury period as good, the middle as bringing recognition from authority, and the last part as more distressing. Here the strong dignity and the Virgo sign lean favourable; the modern astrologer Raman calls Virgo Mercury the most auspicious period of life for that sign. The cautions are the 6th house (competition, effort, health), the lordship of the difficult houses, and a weak Mercury in the navamsa (the finer divisional chart). So the full promise of this strong placement should not be predicted. Its Viparita Raja (Harsha) pattern points to resilience: success after a struggle, not easy success. This period runs from age 28 to 45.

Mercury-Mercury (Jan 2030 to Jun 2032) is Mercury's own sub-period, which opens the period. It is mixed. The exalted dignity is associated with learning, gains through relatives, a good house and clothes. The 6th house and the lordships of the 3rd and 6th are associated with competition, nerves and some setbacks. The texts put the early months on the favourable side and treat the own sub-period as a partial taste of the period's promise. The Dhaiya described below overlaps most of it.

Mercury-Ketu (Jun 2032 to Jun 2033). Ketu is the lord of your rising sign's birth star, so this sub-period touches the base of the chart. The texts mostly describe Ketu's sub-period as unsettled. But Ketu sits in the 4th from Mercury, a kendra (the angle houses 1, 4, 7 and 10), and Jupiter aspects it, so the favourable side leads: comfort, help from siblings and steady learning. Keep patience in business and travel, and calm dealings with relatives.

Mercury-Venus (Jun 2033 to Apr 2036). Among the best parts of the decade. Venus sits in the 4th, a home house, and rules the 2nd and 7th. It is in the 11th from Mercury, a gains house. The texts describe worship, generous acts, clothes and ornaments, married happiness, and help from friends and rulers. Keep up health habits, since the classical texts link Venus with physical strain in this position.

Mercury-Sun (Apr 2036 to Feb 2037). The key stretch of the next decade. The Sun rules the 5th, a trine house, sits in its moolatrikona zone in the 5th, and forms a Raja link with the Moon. Its favourable side is the strongest among the sub-periods in view: favour from officials, support from friends and better standing. Against it, the Sun sits in the 12th from Mercury, a testing position, and the texts associate it with caution around property, fire and authority, and with general health such as headaches and digestion. The stretch is mixed, and its strongest side is standing and support. It ranks first among the sub-periods ahead because its lord is a trine ruler in a strong sign. Jupiter's sub-period is also a trine ruler, but it sits in an enemy sign.

From the computed ephemeris to 24 Oct 2032. A planet re-entering a sign it just left is a retrograde return.

Sade Sati is a seven-and-a-half-year cycle, when Saturn passes the sign before your Moon, the Moon's own sign and the sign after it. Saturn is now in Pisces, 2nd from your Moon, in the closing phase of the cycle that began in 2020. The texts associate the 2nd from the Moon with money worries, earnings that do not stay, concern for children and family, and loss of comfort. Modern writers read this phase as rebuilding. Sade Sati and Dhaiya are popular traditions built on older house-by-house transit rules, and modern authors disagree about how severe they are.

Jupiter is in Leo, 7th from your Moon, a favourable place for marriage, comfort, wealth and purposeful travel, until late January 2027. It then moves into Cancer, where it is exalted, and the texts say it does no harm there, even though Cancer is the 6th from the Moon. Later it passes through Virgo, the 8th from your Moon, in late 2027 to early 2028, from summer to December 2028, and from spring to summer 2029. The texts link that sign with tiring journeys, expenses and grief. Its more favourable passages are Libra (9th from the Moon) from December 2028 to March 2029, and Sagittarius (11th from the Moon) in 2031.

Saturn's moves are as follows. It enters Aries in June 2027, slips back into Pisces from October 2027 to February 2028, then settles in Aries until August 2029. It enters Taurus in August 2029, returns to Aries from October 2029 to April 2030, and settles in Taurus from April 2030 to May 2032. From late May 2032 it moves into Gemini.

Each position is read from the Moon. Aries is the 3rd from the Moon, where the texts give Saturn's good results. Aries is a sign where Saturn is debilitated, so that gain is weakened, and the stretch supports steady effort and initiative. Taurus is the 4th from the Moon, the position popularly called the small Dhaiya. The texts associate it with unrest at home, strain with close relatives and money worry, and it is also Saturn's return to its own natal place. Gemini, the 5th from the Moon, is linked with concern for children, a restless mind and quarrels.

Taken with the dasha, the Aries stretch from February 2028 to August 2029 runs mostly under the Jupiter sub-period, which is the supportive one, so the two timers point the same way. The Taurus Dhaiya from August 2029 to May 2032 overlaps most of Mercury's opening sub-period, so Mercury's favourable start is paired with home and family caution.

Past phases, as checks: the Dhaiya in the 4th (Jun 2000 to Apr 2003) began in Jupiter's period, in its Mercury sub-period. The Dhaiya in the 8th (Sep 2009 to Aug 2012) began in Jupiter-Rahu and ran into Saturn's own first sub-period. The rising phase of Sade Sati (Jan 2020 to Apr 2022) began in Saturn-Venus and passed through Saturn-Sun and Saturn-Moon. The peak (Apr 2022 to Mar 2025), when Saturn sat in Aquarius, your Moon's own sign, ran through the Moon and Mars sub-periods and into Rahu. The texts treat the peak as the most demanding phase, though Saturn was in its own sign during the rising and peak phases, which the texts say softens its harder side. Do these match your experience?

Yogini periods are shorter tone cycles that run alongside the dasha. Sankata (Rahu, to Jan 2030) is the crisis tone in the texts: losses, setbacks and weakness, fear of enemies, separation and official trouble, and confusion. Its planet is Rahu, the same planet as the current sub-period, so the theme repeats. Mangala (Moon, Jan 2030 to Jan 2031) is gentle: comfort, devotion, fame, auspicious events at home and growth in learning. Pingala (Sun, Jan 2031 to Jan 2033) has a demanding tone in general, but the Sun's strong dignity here softens it, with favour from authority and general health habits to keep up. Sign-based chara periods, given as dates only, run Leo (2020 to 2032), Virgo (2032 to 2045) and Libra (2045 to 2054).

Double-transit stretches are times when Jupiter and Saturn both act on the same house, counted from your rising sign, Aries. These are the sharpest timing points ahead. During the Rahu sub-period, the 9th (fortune and teachers) is active from November 2026 to January 2027, and the 12th from January to June 2027.

From June 2027 to January 2030, during the Jupiter sub-period, the stretches are the densest of the decade. The 10th (career) is active in July to December 2028 and again in March to August 2029. The 7th (partnership) is active in December 2028 to March 2029 and again from October 2029. The 2nd (money and family) is active in November 2027 to February 2028 and in August 2029. The 1st (self and health) is active in March to July 2028.

In Mercury's opening sub-period, the 4th (home and property) is active in April to May 2030, September 2030 to February 2031, June to October 2031 and March to May 2032. The 2nd (money) is active in the same months. In Mercury-Ketu, the 5th (children and creative work) and the 9th (fortune) are under review in August to October 2032.

Saturn over natal planets: Saturn returns to its own natal place in Taurus in August to October 2029 and again from April 2030 to May 2032. For those dates, its 2nd house, and the 10th and 11th it rules, come under review. From late May 2032 to May 2033 Saturn passes over natal Jupiter and Rahu in Gemini, so Jupiter's houses (the 9th and 12th) and the 3rd come under review.

Remedies (optional): for the Rahu sub-period, a charity of a goat and a chant to Shiva are traditional practices. For the Sun sub-period at the end of the decade, worship of the Sun is a traditional practice. None of these is needed.

Aug 2032	Oct 2032	Double transit on the 9th	fortune and teachers	Teachers, faith and longer journeys draw attention; a season for learning and reflection.
Jun 2033	Apr 2036	Sub-period Mercury-Venus	Venus rules 2/7, sits in the 4th	Favourable stretch for family, comforts, learning and friends, with health habits kept up.
Apr 2036	Feb 2037	Sub-period Mercury-Sun	Sun rules 5, sits in the 5th	Key stretch: favour from officials and friends, balanced by caution around property, fire and temper.

In date order. Sub-periods are Vimshottari; a double transit is Jupiter and Saturn both acting on a house from the lagna; Saturn phases are counted from the Moon.

The key stretch is the Sun sub-period inside Mercury's period (Apr 2036 to Feb 2037), a mixed stretch with the strongest support for standing and friends. The second bright stretch is the Jupiter sub-period from mid-2027 to early 2030, which has the densest double-transit timing. The testing stretches are the Rahu sub-period now, the Taurus Dhaiya from August 2029 to May 2032, and the short Ketu sub-period that follows Mercury's opening.

12 Strengths, challenges, guidance and optional remedies

Your chart rests on a steady, principled core. Its strengths are real, but they reward effort, and its challenges are mostly about pacing, patience and temper. Here is what to build on, what to manage, and where the timing matters most.

Strengths to build on

1. A principled lagna lord. Mars, the ruler of your rising sign, sits in the 9th house of faith and fortune. Your drive is backed by conviction, and good results tend to come through action and belief rather than luck alone (see Personality and Spirituality).
2. Authority and creativity in the 5th. The Sun sits in the first twenty degrees of Leo, its most dignified zone. It gives self-respect, teaching ability and a gift for standing up in front of others (see Personality and Family).
3. Gains and good networks. The Moon, a benefic in this chart, sits in the 11th house of friends and income, and it is exalted in the navamsa, the finer chart that texts use to read inner values. Friends and steady income have real support (see Mind and Finance).
4. Built-in combinations for success. The Sun and Moon form a Raja link, which joins the houses of standing and fortune, and Jupiter and Mars together form a Dhana link, which points to the capacity to earn (see Yogas and doshas).
5. Resilience from the 6th. Mercury is exalted in the 6th house, the pattern texts call Viparita Raja. It tends to bring progress won through effort rather than handed over (see Mind and Health).

Challenges to manage

1. Money builds slowly. Saturn in the 2nd house rewards patience. Early strain and uneven stretches are part of this pattern, and steady saving is the answer (see Finance).
2. Home and partnership need steady care. Venus sits in an enemy's sign in the 4th house and is aspected by Mars and Saturn. Comfort and marriage both ask for patience and ongoing attention (see Family and Relationships).
3. A hot temper. Mars and the Sun both run hot, and Ketu beside Mars adds a restless edge. The fierce outer style turns into quarrels when anger takes over, so pausing before reacting is the skill to practise (see Personality and Spirituality).
4. A mind that varies. Mercury is exalted in the main chart but debilitated in the navamsa, so sharpness can come and go. Regular routines help more than pushing harder (see Mind).
5. Advice and sibling ties. Rahu sits with Jupiter in the 3rd house, a combination that asks you to check advice carefully and take care in sibling relationships (see Family and Yogas and doshas).

Practical guidance by life area

- Career. Work suits your temperament best as steady, long-term building rather than sudden leaps. The double-transit spell from July to December 2028, when Jupiter and Saturn both touch the 10th house, is a good moment to review your professional direction.
- Money. Keep savings regular and decisions simple. Gains have more support than outgoings, so a monthly review of spending pays off. While the Rahu sub-period runs to June 2027, hold off on large commitments.

- Relationships. Talk openly with a partner and plan together. The stretch from December 2028 to March 2029, when Jupiter moves over the 7th house, suits clear conversations about shared plans and values.
- Family. Give family ties patience and steady contact. Between September 2030 and February 2031, when Jupiter and Saturn both fall on the 4th house, is a good time to plan home matters carefully rather than quickly.
- Health. Rest, regular meals and recovery time are the basics. Your fire needs cooling breaks, so avoid pushing through fatigue. This is general guidance, not medical advice.
- Learning and faith. Study, teachers and reflection suit you well. Test beliefs through your own practice, since your path is built from experience more than inherited ritual.

The chart describes a person of conviction and warmth whose best results come from patience, steady routines and principled effort. The main work is to keep the energy of Mars and the Sun pointed at clear goals, and to give home and partnership the slow attention they need. The supportive stretches ahead are good for building, and the harder ones are chances to practise restraint. Read these as a map of tendencies you can work with, not as a fixed fate.

Traditional remedies (optional)

Table 20. Optional traditional remedies

Planet	Why it is suggested	Traditional day	Practice	Status
Mercury	exalted, in the 6th	Wednesday	Chant Mercury's mantra on Wednesdays and give simple charity, such as green lentils or school supplies.	Optional
Jupiter	in an enemy's sign, in the 3rd	Thursday	Chant Jupiter's mantra on Thursdays, and give a meal or books to a teacher as a gesture of respect.	Optional
Venus	in an enemy's sign, in the 4th	Friday	Chant Venus's mantra on Fridays, and make simple acts of kindness toward family a habit.	Optional

All remedies are optional traditional practices. No gemstone is needed.

Traditional practices are offered as optional devotional or lifestyle choices, not as requirements or fixes, and none is needed to benefit from the reading. Gemstones are an optional tradition on which sources disagree, so consult a qualified, independent astrologer before considering one, and never treat a reading as a reason to buy.
