How to read this report

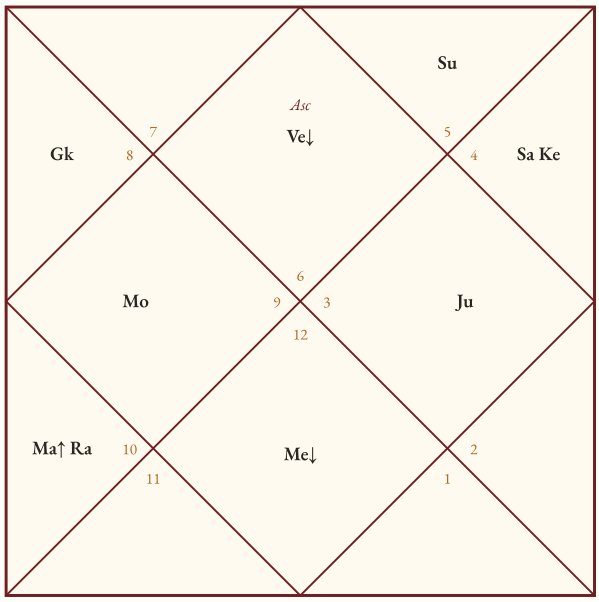

Jyotish describes tendencies and timing, not certainties. The classical texts state their results bluntly; this report gives their sense, weighs each factor against the rest of the chart, and says where sources differ. The planetary positions come from one computation and are treated as correct; the reading is an interpretation and can be wrong. Nothing here is medical, financial or legal advice.

1 Chart at a glance

Leo rises with the Sun as its lord, and much of the chart's activity gathers in the twelfth house. The themes below form a map of the whole chart. Each one points to the section that explains it in full.

Rashi chart (D1), North Indian style. The houses are fixed (the 1st is the top centre diamond, then anticlockwise); the numbers are signs (1 = Aries to 12 = Pisces). ↑ exalted, ↓ debilitated, (R) retrograde, Gk = Gulika.

The chart's shape

The fourth and tenth houses are both occupied: the Moon sits in the fourth, and Venus and Saturn share the tenth. The first and seventh houses are empty. Five planets fall in the sixth, eighth and twelfth houses, the traditionally harder places: the Sun, Mars, Mercury and Ketu in the twelfth, and Rahu in the sixth. In the navamsa (D9), the divisional chart that the texts link with partnership and inner values, the Sun sits in its moolatrikona sign and Mars is exalted.

Sign lordship loops back on itself. The Moon and Mars hold each other's signs, and the chains of the Sun and Mercury end in that loop. Jupiter, in its own sign, leads only back to itself, so it is not the chart's final dispositor (the planet at the end of the chain). Venus, in its own sign, is the final dispositor of Saturn.

The lagna's star

The lagna's star is Purva Phalguni, ruled by Venus, which sits in the tenth house. Its traditional theme is pleasure, union and warmth. Personality and Relationships develop that theme.

Six themes that define this chart

1. A lagna lord in the twelfth. The Sun, lord of Leo, sits in friendly Cancer in house 12, with Mars, Mercury and Ketu. Its results come with more effort because of the twelfth house, but its strong navamsa position helps them come through. Personality covers the Sun, and Spirituality covers the twelfth house.

1. Mars: debilitated, cancelled, and a yogakaraka. Mars is debilitated in Cancer, but the debility is cancelled on three of six tests, and it is exalted in D9. It is combust, close enough to the Sun to be outshone by it. It rules the fourth and ninth houses, which makes it the yogakaraka, the planet that rules both a kendra (angular house) and a trikona (trinal house). Relationships covers the Manglik question, which the chart cancels.

1. The Moon's debility, partly softened. The Moon in Scorpio, house 4, is debilitated, but only one of six tests cancels it, so the softening is partial. As a natural benefic, it stays supportive of the mind and the home. Mind covers the Moon in full.

1. Venus and Saturn in the tenth. Venus, in its own sign, and Saturn, in a friendly one, share the house of work and public standing, within five degrees of each other. Venus is the planet that Saturn's sign chain leads back to, so the pair is anchored in Venus's steadier base. Career covers the pair.

1. Jupiter: moolatrikona, and the only planet aspecting the lagna. Jupiter in Sagittarius, house 5, sits in its moolatrikona sign and is retrograde. It rules the fifth and the eighth houses, so its gifts come with a testing side, since the eighth is a harder house. Family covers the fifth house, and Spirituality covers the eighth.

1. Rahu and Ketu: vargottama nodes. Rahu, in house 6 in Capricorn, and Ketu, in house 12 in Cancer, are both vargottama, meaning they occupy the same sign in D1 and D9. Texts treat that as a source of strength and reliability. Ketu sits with the Sun, Mars and Mercury, and Rahu lies in Saturn's sign. Health covers Rahu, and Spirituality covers Ketu.

Strengths and tensions in one view

Strengths come first. Mars is a yogakaraka, exalted in D9, with its debility cancelled. Venus is in its own sign in the tenth, Jupiter is in moolatrikona, and the Sun is in moolatrikona in D9. The Sun and Mars form a raja combination, the link between a kendra lord and a trikona lord, which the texts connect with standing and influence. The Sun, Mars and Mercury each take part in a dhana (wealth) combination. The vargottama nodes add steadiness.

Tensions come next. The twelfth house is crowded, and Mars is combust there, so the chart's energy is concentrated and turned inward. Mercury, the Atmakaraka (the planet that stands for the self and the chart's core drive), sits in an enemy's sign and is debilitated in D9. Venus is debilitated in D9, in Virgo, so its navamsa promise falls short of its good placement in D1. The Moon and Mars are debilitated in D1, though both are cancelled.

Birth-time sensitivity

The lagna sits 18.9 degrees into Leo, so the sign changes only if the birth time is off by about 45 minutes. The lagna's divisional positions (D9 at 66% of its division, D10 at 29%) are not at the edges where a few minutes could change them. D10 still depends closely on the birth time, so treat D10 readings as provisional. The Moon moves about half a degree an hour, so its sign and nakshatra are far less sensitive than the lagna and the divisional charts.

Functional roles for this lagna

For a Leo lagna, Mars is the yogakaraka and the Sun is the lagna lord. Jupiter rules a trikona (the fifth) and the eighth house. Venus rules a kendra (the tenth) and a house of effort and gain (the third). Mercury rules the eleventh, another house of effort and gain, and the second. Saturn rules the seventh, a kendra, and the sixth, which is both a harder house and one of effort. The Moon rules the twelfth. Rahu and Ketu rule no houses.

2 Personality and temperament

The rising sign

Your lagna is Leo, at 18°51′ of Leo. The sign would only change if the birth time were off by about 45 minutes. Leo rising is traditionally read as proud, brave and commanding: someone who wants recognition, can be quick to anger, and is drawn to leadership and to the company of people in power. The traditional texts also describe warmth, sincerity and generosity, though some note a lack of tact.

Mars does the most for Leo, since it rules the 4th and 9th houses and so acts as the yogakaraka, the planet that carries both the best houses for this lagna. Its strength is tempered by where it sits. Mars is debilitated in Cancer in the 12th house, though that weakness is cancelled, and it is close enough to the Sun to be overpowered by its light. Its good work tends to happen quietly and behind the scenes rather than in open view. Venus and Saturn, which the classical lists count as harder for Leo, share the 10th house. Venus sits in its own sign, which softens that.

The lagna nakshatra

Your lagna falls in Purva Phalguni, ruled by Venus. The classical notes on this star, Bhaga's star of pleasure and union, describe a sweet-spoken, generous and radiant person, with a theme of love, marriage and family life. These are tendencies, not fixed traits; sign, house, aspects and dasha all modify them. Venus, the lord of this star, sits in its own sign in the 10th house, close to Saturn, so the warmth of the star has a serious, working edge.

The lagna lord and its placement

The Sun is the lagna lord. It is a friend by sign and sits in the 12th house, in Cancer. This is the most important placement for the self in the chart. Classical texts read a lagna lord in the 12th as pulling energy toward expense, distance and withdrawal, and they warn of reduced comfort, heavy spending and anger unless benefics help. Modern readers add foreign residence and an inward, spiritual pull.

Some things soften this. In the navamsa chart the Sun sits in moolatrikona, a strong dignity, so its inner strength is real. Through the Sun the chart also forms the Raja combination (kendra and trikona lords) and the Dhana combination (wealth lords). What does not soften it is the company it keeps. No benefic aspects the Sun. It is aspected only by Saturn and Rahu, both malefic in this chart, and it shares Cancer with Mars, Mercury and Ketu.

The placement dominates your daily temperament. You are likely to work out of sight, abroad or in service, with your drive showing through effort rather than display. The navamsa dignity and the combinations mean your inner sense of worth is solid and that outward standing, though slower, is real. Spending is worth handling mindfully. Money decisions stay with you.

Planets in the lagna or aspecting it

No planet occupies the lagna. Jupiter aspects it from Sagittarius. Classical texts count this as one of the strongest supports a lagna can have, bringing religious and virtuous habits, respect from authorities, good company and protection. Jupiter is a natural benefic here and sits in its own moolatrikona sign, so that protection is real. It also rules the 8th house, which adds a note of hidden matters, but its aspect on the self is the part that shapes temperament: optimism, principle and a dignified manner. Read it as protection and growth, not as a guarantee.

The Sun

The Sun sits in Cancer, a friendly sign, in the 12th house with Mars, Mercury and Ketu. Ketu is within four degrees of it. The traditional texts split on this placement. The more favourable view gives an honourable, eloquent person of good qualities, though undertakings can be unsteady. Another view describes a hot temper, hard work for others and some friction with relatives. Both agree on effort and strain. Because the Sun receives only the aspects of Saturn and Rahu, its honour is earned through effort rather than handed over.

Classical texts are cautious about standing and wealth for a Sun in the 12th. They also credit it with energy and with a shine that appears behind the scenes, abroad, or in service and spiritual settings. That is the side to work with.

The Moon sign

The Moon is in Scorpio, in the 4th house, and counts as a benefic in this chart because it is waxing. Its debility is cancelled, since the lord of its exalted sign, Venus, sits in a kendra. The Moon's detail is in the Mind section. Here it adds a softer, feeling layer beneath the firmer Leo rising.

Birth day and tithi

You were born on a Saturday, the day of Saturn. Traditional sources read a Saturday birth as a serious, enduring temperament, not a sign of misfortune. Your tithi is Shukla Ekadashi, the eleventh day of the waxing Moon. One traditional text describes such a person as devoted to the gods and the learned, someone who keeps vows, gives in charity, and is pure-hearted and capable. These are minor colourings of temperament, not fate.

Temperament, drawn together

The front the world sees is a proud, brave Leo rising, with Jupiter's protection on the self and a dignified, principled manner. Underneath is a lagna lord that works out of sight in the 12th house, among malefic company and without benefic aspect, but with real inner dignity from the navamsa. The Moon's softer, feeling side sits in Scorpio. The result is a person who can seem confident and proud at one moment and then withdraw, reflect and serve quietly the next. The pride is genuine, but the chart asks it to be expressed through service, work done well and inner conviction rather than public display.

The Atmakaraka, the planet with the highest degree in its sign and the planet of the self, is Mercury. It sits in a sign unfriendly to it. Traditional texts read this as a call to grow through truthful speech and steady judgment, and not as bad luck. Rahu and Ketu are both vargottama, sitting in the same sign in the birth chart and the navamsa.

When this area is most active

From December 2030 to June 2031, the Moon period moves into its Sun sub-period. This stretch is supportive because the Sun is the lagna lord, and it tends to favour self-confidence and a clearer sense of direction. The same supportive tone returns in the Mars-Sun sub-period from June to November 2037. Between August and October 2032, Jupiter and Saturn both aspect the 1st house, a classical marker that the self and its presentation come into focus. It is a good time to ask whether your outward style matches what you want to express.

3 Mind, emotions and inner life

The Moon: sign, house and star

Your Moon sits in Scorpio, in the 4th house of home, comfort and inner security, and it lies in the lunar star Jyeshtha. Scorpio is the Moon's weakest sign, so the Moon is "debilitated" there and less at ease in its own expression. In your chart that weakness is cancelled. Venus, the lord of Taurus (the Moon's sign of strength), stands in a kendra (an angular house, here the 10th), and the classical rule for this cancellation treats that as softening the fall. The Moon also does well in its house: the 4th is where it is most settled, and a waxing Moon there is one of the steadier placements. Your feelings are deep rather than shallow.

The traditional texts describe Scorpio itself as intense, private and guarded. Modern astrologers read the same placement as depth, sharp perception and the ability to recover from emotional strain. Both readings fit: you feel strongly and tend to hold feelings close.

Jyeshtha, the star of seniority, gives a protective, responsible streak and a wish to be respected. Its people are usually content with a few close friends. The classical texts call it quick-tempered; some modern writers add a habit of dwelling on troubles and a touch of jealousy. Trivedi notes that only a well-placed Mercury brings out the star's good results. Mercury, the star's ruler, sits in the 12th house, so this is worth keeping in mind (see below).

Aspects and company of the Moon

No planet shares the Moon's house, so it stands alone in the 4th. Three planets look at it, and each one's nature sets the tone:

- Venus, a benefic, looks at it from the 10th. The look is mutual, and it supports a warm emotional tone, comfort and affection.
- Saturn, a malefic by nature, also looks from the 10th. The texts link Saturn's look at the 4th with less ease at home and a serious, ascetic bent. Modern writers see discipline and self-reliance in the same placement.
- Ketu, a shadow node and also a malefic, looks from the 12th. Some authors accept this kind of node look and some do not, so treat it as a light note.

The Moon's sign lord, Mars, sits in the 12th. Mars is debilitated in Cancer, but that weakness is cancelled too, and it is combust (close enough to the Sun to be overshadowed). Mars is the yogakaraka for Leo rising, ruling both the 4th and the 9th, so it is a helpful planet and its good results come through more fully. Combustion dims that, and the 12th pulls its energy toward private and behind-the-scenes matters. Mars is strong in the navamsa (a finer divisional chart), where it is exalted. The Moon and Mars are each other's sign lords, so mind and drive are closely tied: feeling and action tend to move together.

In the navamsa, the Moon sits in Sagittarius, the sign of Jupiter, in the 4th house. That is neutral in strength. The navamsa position is more sensitive to the exact birth time than the Moon's own sign and star, so treat it as a supporting colour rather than a main theme.

Moon yogas

Sunapha is present: a planet sits in the sign next to the Moon, here Jupiter in Sagittarius. Jupiter is in its moolatrikona sign, so it is well supported. The texts describe this combination as intelligent, virtuous, peaceable and well regarded. It is the main steadying influence on your emotional life, because a wise and generous planet sits beside the Moon. It does not remove the depth of the debilitated Moon, but it gives that depth a reasonable and well-liked face.

Mercury and thinking style

Mercury sits in Cancer, the Moon's water sign, in the 12th house. Cancer is an enemy sign for Mercury, so its gifts come through with less ease. Mercury is the chart's Atmakaraka, the planet of the self's central striving, and its natural nature here is malefic, so its restlessness is sharper than its learning. It is about 22 degrees from the Sun, so it is not burnt by the Sun's glare, and the Sun-Mercury pattern (Budhaditya, covered under yogas) holds. Its navamsa position is weak as well, so the gift needs steady practice to show.

Your thinking is imaginative and emotionally attuned. You are quick with words, drawn to music and poetry, and talented in conversation. Restlessness shows up as talkativeness and a fondness for argument. The texts agree that Mercury in this placement can bring friction with relatives. Saturn's look and Rahu's look at Mercury add, in the texts' view, stern speech and strain with elders and siblings.

The 12th house suggests a private, inward thinker who does best alone and with time to reflect. You may be good at research, languages, foreign links and contemplation. Watch for worry, and for spending that runs ahead of your plans. The texts describe Mercury as the Moon's enemy, though the Moon treats Mercury as a friend, so mind and thinking can pull in different directions. A steady routine helps them agree.

Emotional needs and patterns

Your inner life seems to need three things. The first is a settled base at home and a steady routine: the Moon does best in the 4th, but its own sign is weak, and Saturn's look asks for structure. The second is time alone to recharge, since Mercury and Mars in the 12th and the Moon's deep, private nature all lean inward. The third is a few trusted people rather than a wide circle, in line with the star Jyeshtha.

The common pattern is that feelings run deep and are held close. Worry or inner tension can gather when things go unsaid. The protective streak can turn sharp under pressure. Venus's kindly look and Sunapha offer the counterweight: warmth, reasonableness and good regard from others. Here are two checks rather than claims. The texts often link this placement with worry and inner tension; does that match your experience? And does talking something through with one trusted person settle your mind more than thinking it over alone?

When this area is most active

Three stretches stand out for the mind. From April 2027 to September 2028, the Moon-Mercury stretch makes Mercury, a lord of the 2nd and 11th houses, the main driver of thinking. It is a busy time for planning, study and talk, but not the easiest. From December 2034 to December 2035, the Mars-Mercury stretch keeps the focus on the mind, with Mars, lord of the 4th, in charge; expect demanding but productive work on your thinking. From November 2037 to June 2038, the Mars-Moon stretch puts the Moon in the lead as sub-lord, sitting in the 4th and ruling the 12th; this often coincides with a more inward and reflective season, worth planning for gently.

4 Career and vocation

The 10th house and its lord

The 10th house is the house of work, standing and public reputation. In this chart it is Taurus, and its lord Venus sits there in its own sign. A strong career-house lord placed in that same house is a clear signature. The classical texts read Venus in the 10th as renown, honour and prosperity, often through beauty, the arts, property or people in public life, and the classical texts agree that this placement is favourable. Venus is in a kendra (one of the corner houses 1, 4, 7 or 10) and in its own sign, which forms Malavya Yoga. The texts link that combination with comfort, a respected position and a pleasant working life.

In the navamsa chart (D9) Venus is debilitated. But there it sits in the first house, not the 6th, 8th or 12th, so the usual caution about a routine or ordinary career does not apply.

Planets in the 10th: Venus and Saturn

Saturn shares Venus's sign, 4.8 degrees apart. Saturn is a natural malefic, but it is a friend of Taurus and rules the 6th and 7th houses. The classics count Saturn in the 10th among their most praised placements: authority as a minister, judge or local leader, earned through hard work and public service. Modern astrologers stress sharper rises and falls, so career progress here tends to come in stages rather than in one straight line.

Venus is a benefic and shares the house, and the Bhrigu Sutras tie Saturn's results to its company: success with a benefic, obstacles with a malefic. Venus's presence tilts the pairing toward the favourable reading.

Together they point to artistic and craft skill: painting, writing, books, sculpture and woodwork. Classical opinions differ on the flavour. Brihat Jataka and Phaladeepika stress arts, writing and wealth, while Saravali leans toward crafts and wandering. Jataka Parijata adds athletics.

Saturn is also lord of the 6th house, placed here in the 10th. Raman links that with career changes and with rivals or opponents affecting the work, so choosing employers and colleagues carefully is worth the effort.

Aspects on the 10th: Moon and Rahu

The Moon aspects the 10th house. Because it is waxing, it is a benefic in this chart, and the texts say its aspect works better while it is bright. Raman's case studies read this aspect as work with the public, administration or accounts. That reading comes from individual charts rather than a classical rule, so treat it as colour: care, public contact and a sense of the public touch the career.

Rahu, placed in the 6th in Capricorn, also casts an aspect on the 10th. Authors differ on which aspects nodes have, so this is a light point. The placement is the clearer clue. The 6th house is associated with detail work and service jobs, and Raman links Rahu in Capricorn with promotion and official recognition.

Career significators: Venus, the Sun and Mercury

Venus is the Amatyakaraka, the planet with the second-highest degree in the chart, which the texts treat as the chart's "minister" and the means by which the person rises. Venus is in its own sign and is also the 10th lord, which suits the classical reading of a strong Amatyakaraka as a minister, a trusted adviser or someone valued by those in authority. Murthy ties it to advancement in employment and social standing. Read this as advisory, managerial or service leadership, not as a promise of office. The texts also warn that a malefic's company can turn Venus's results adverse. Saturn shares its house, so progress is steady but not effortless.

The Sun, the lagna lord, sits in Cancer in the 12th house. Brihat Jataka describes the Sun in Cancer as working for others, and in the 12th the Sun points to work out of the spotlight: research, hospitals, ashrams or postings abroad. Raman also associates it with travel.

Mercury, the highest-degree planet and the Atmakaraka, is also in the 12th, 22.6 degrees from the Sun and not combust. The pair forms Budhaditya Yoga, which the texts link with service, favour from superiors and skill across many kinds of work.

Mars and the yogakaraka role

Mars is the yogakaraka for Leo lagna. It rules the 4th (a kendra) and the 9th (a trikona), so it is the planet most tied to this chart's upward movement. A raja yoga forms with the Sun, and the texts link it with status, authority and recognition. For career, though, the link to the 10th lord counts most, and that role belongs to Venus. Raman says a yogakaraka's recognition comes through the houses it rules.

Mars is debilitated in Cancer, but the debilitation is cancelled. The Moon, lord of Mars's sign, sits in a kendra, and Mars is exalted in the navamsa. Mars is also close to the Sun, which in this chart fits drive that shows in disciplined, behind-the-scenes effort more than in public display.

Suitable fields and working style

Table 7. Profession indicators (Phaladeepika ch. 5)

Counted from	10th sign	Its lord	Lord's D9 sign	Indicator (D9 sign lord)	Classical field
10th from the lagna	Taurus	Venus	Virgo	Mercury	Mercury as the indicator: work with words, numbers and ideas, such as writing, accounting, mathematics, teaching, clerical or office work, trade, astrology and the arts.
10th from the Moon	Leo	Sun	Leo	Sun	Sun as the indicator: work linked with government, authority or respected institutions, leadership roles, medicine and health products, and trades in gold or metals.
10th from the Sun	Aries	Mars	Capricorn	Saturn	Saturn as the indicator: steady work that rewards patience and effort, such as labour-intensive or service roles, construction, wood, mining, farming of roots and produce, craft and sculpture, and in modern readings large organisations and public systems.

Phaladeepika ch. 5: the source of livelihood is shown by the lord of the navamsa sign occupied by the 10th lord, counted from the lagna, the Moon and the Sun; the strongest of the three prevails.

Three classical indicators point to fields of work, and they overlap. Each is a leaning, not a fixed job. Raman advises reading them together with the 10th lord, the planets in the 10th, and the strongest indicator leading.

- From the lagna, the 10th lord Venus sits in navamsa Virgo, whose lord Mercury points to work with words and ideas: writing, teaching, accounting, commerce, astrology and the arts. This fits the Venus and Saturn craft pairing well.

- From the Moon, the 10th lord Sun sits in navamsa Leo, so the Sun points to roles with responsibility and institutional backing: government, leadership, medicine and health products, or trades in gold and metals.
- From the Sun, the 10th lord Mars sits in navamsa Capricorn, whose lord Saturn points to steady, structured work that rewards patience: large organisations, construction, public systems and craft.

Mercury's placement adds specifics. Its position in the 12th is associated with foreign languages, translation, research and institutions such as hospitals and ashrams. Raman links Mercury, lord of the 2nd and 11th houses, placed in the 12th, with income through religious institutions and with business setbacks, so new ventures need careful planning.

Venus in Taurus, its own earth sign, adds comfort, beauty and steady prosperity. Saravali links it with livelihood from land and livestock. Taken together, the strongest fits are beauty, the arts, hospitality, property, advisory roles and institutional work. Old trade lists are best translated into modern families of work.

The working life in D10

Table 8. Dashamsa (D10) positions, Aquarius lagna

Planet	D10 sign	D10 house	Dignity
Sun	Aries	3	Exalted
Moon	Sagittarius	11	Neutral sign
Mars	Libra	9	Neutral sign
Mercury	Sagittarius	11	Neutral sign
Jupiter	Aquarius	1	Neutral sign
Venus	Libra	9	Own sign
Saturn	Leo	7	Enemy's sign
Rahu	Virgo	8	-
Ketu	Pisces	2	-

D10 houses are counted from the dashamsa lagna. The D10 is very sensitive to the birth time: a few minutes can change its lagna and every house in it.

The dashamsa (D10) is Parashara's chart for power, position and working life. It refines the career picture in the birth chart rather than replacing it. D10 depends closely on the exact birth time, so confirm the birth time before relying on this detail. In this chart the D10 lagna is Aquarius. The D10 10th house, Scorpio, is empty, and its lord Mars sits in Libra, the 9th house of the D10 chart.

A lord in the 9th of D10 points to an independent, self-directed working style, suited to business or running one's own work. Venus, the D1 10th lord, also sits in that 9th house, in its moolatrikona dignity, and the texts read a strong planet in D10 as associated with career gains in its periods. Venus is a benefic, which the texts read as a helpful superior. Mars, a natural malefic, sits there too and can mean friction with bosses in its own periods.

Rahu in the 8th house of D10 leans slightly toward salaried or service work over running one's own business. The 6th and 7th houses of D10 are empty, so this lean is light.

When this area is most active

Three stretches stand out for career in the coming years.

- The Saturn sub-period within the Moon mahadasha, September 2025 to April 2027, which is the current period. Saturn rules the 6th and 7th houses, so the tone is mixed and demanding rather than easy. The Moon mahadasha itself runs to June 2031; the Saturn sub-period ends in April 2027 and does not mark the end of the larger period.
- The Venus sub-period within the Moon mahadasha, April 2029 to December 2030. Venus is the 10th lord and sits in the 10th, and its strength in D10 suggests career gains. The tone is active and mixed.
- Saturn over the natal Venus and Saturn in the 10th, April 2030 to May 2032. Jupiter and Saturn both touch the 10th house in several spells during these years, notably September 2030 to February 2031 and June to October 2031.

Patience, steady skill-building and clear commitments suit this chart. These periods are good times to check whether work and standing are developing as the chart suggests, not guarantees of any outcome.

5 Finance and wealth

Leo rising gives your money houses an unusual shape. The 2nd house (savings and family money) and the 11th house (income and gains) are both ruled by Mercury, and Mercury sits in the 12th house of expenses. Two strong supports pull the other way: Jupiter in the 5th house, in its moolatrikona sign, and Mars, which rules the 4th and 9th houses and so is a yogakaraka (a planet that rules both a kendra, an angular house, and a trikona, a fortunate house, and works strongly for this lagna). The overall pattern is money that can be earned well but moves out easily unless it is managed on purpose.

Table 9. The wealth houses

House	Matters	Sign and lord	Planets there	What it says
2nd	Savings, family money, speech	Virgo; lord Mercury in the 12th (Cancer, enemy)	none	Savings are hard to keep; money tends to be spent before it builds.
11th	Income and gains	Gemini; lord Mercury in the 12th (Cancer, enemy)	none	Earnings flow out easily, but Jupiter's aspect adds steady, honourable income.
5th	Investments, intelligence, past merit	Sagittarius; lord Jupiter in the 5th (Sagittarius, moolatrikona)	Jupiter	Investments and merit are well supported; Jupiter is strong in this house.
9th	Fortune and blessings	Aries; lord Mars in the 12th (Cancer, debilitated, cancelled)	none	Fortune comes through effort; Mars is strong but its placement pulls back.
12th	Expenses and outflow	Cancer; lord Moon in the 4th (Scorpio, debilitated, cancelled)	Sun, Mars, Mercury, Ketu	Outflow is real; the Moon's softened weakness keeps it manageable.

The wealth houses, one by one

2nd house: savings. Virgo is ruled by Mercury, which sits in the 12th house in Cancer, an enemy sign for it. Savings are hard to keep, and money tends to be spent before it builds. Some classical renderings add that the person leans on others' resources; Raman is milder and speaks of respectable income. Mercury is also weak in the navamsa (D9, a finer divisional chart), where it is debilitated.

11th house: income and gains. The same planet, Mercury, rules gains. Gains tend to flow out, often toward travel, charity or distant ventures, and Raman links this house to fines and penalties. Jupiter's aspect on the 11th is the counterweight: it brings steady, honourable income through institutions and good work. The texts treat it as a protective influence that is hopeful but not a guarantee.

5th house: investments and merit. Jupiter sits here in Sagittarius, where it is strong. Jataka Parijata links this house to choice riches, and Braha to successful investments and a liking for speculation. Jupiter also rules the 8th, which adds some caution, so gains here tend to come with ups and downs. Even so, this is one of the firmest supports for money in the chart.

9th house: fortune. Aries is ruled by Mars, which sits in the 12th house, close enough to the Sun to be overpowered (combust). Classical texts count a 9th lord in the 12th as a drain on fortune, and Raman links it to a hard start and money that often runs short. The balance comes from Mars itself. As a yogakaraka it is strong for Leo, and its debilitation in Cancer is cancelled: the Moon, which rules its sign, sits in a kendra, and Mars is exalted in the navamsa.

Brihat Jataka links Mars in Cancer to wealth from water or farming, earned despite hardship. Jupiter's aspect on the 9th brings good fortune (Saravali). Fortune here comes through effort and blessing rather than ease.

12th house: expenses. The Moon rules this house and sits in the 4th, in Scorpio, where it is debilitated. That weakness is softened, because Venus, lord of the Moon's exaltation sign, is placed in a kendra. Spending is a real part of this chart, and the texts ask for care with it. The choices remain yours.

Dhana yogas and gains against expenses

Dhana yoga is a classical combination that links the lords of the wealth houses. Three are present, each a conjunction in the 12th house: Mars with Mercury, Mars with the Sun, and Mercury with the Sun. Uttara Kalamrita 4.5 links the 2nd and 11th lords to affluence. Here one planet carries both, so the earning power is real, but the combination sits in the house of expenses, and the outflow comes with it.

Sunapha, Jupiter's pattern, points to wealth built personally; Raman stresses that it has much influence on whether finances rise or fall. Shakata, a classical pattern of ups and downs, is present but cancelled. The texts describe losses followed by recovery, and Raman finds such hardship usually mild in practice.

Gains and expenses share one planet, so the net result depends more on spending habits than on fate. Jupiter's aspect on the gains house keeps steady income in view. Income may flow to travel, charity or distant ventures, and a budget with a habit of saving first helps.

Overall

The strongest factor is Mercury's placement. It ties the 2nd and 11th houses to the house of expenses, and that dominates the reading. Jupiter (in the 5th, aspecting the 9th and 11th) and Mars (a yogakaraka with a cancelled debilitation) provide the support. The balance is a person who can earn through effort and merit, and who does best with steady saving and careful budgeting. Decisions about money, property and investments stay with you; the chart points to patterns, not to outcomes.

When this area is most active

The Moon-Mercury sub-period, April 2027 to September 2028, is mixed and demanding for money matters, with Mercury as sub-lord of both wealth houses. It is a time to budget carefully rather than the best time for large moves. The Mars-Jupiter sub-period, November 2032 to October 2033, is the supportive one, with Jupiter as sub-lord ruling the 5th. Double-transit spells on the 11th house, when Jupiter and Saturn both bear on the gains house, fall in December 2028 to March 2029 and in October 2029 to January 2030. The texts treat these as markers for income matters, not as promised events.

6 Health and vitality

This is traditional astrology, not medical advice. For any health concern, please see a doctor. What follows describes how the classical texts read your constitution and the times to take extra care.

Table 10. Traditional body correspondences

House	Matters	Sign	Body area (by house)	Body area (by sign)	Planets there	Care note
1st	Body and vitality	Leo	Head	Upper abdomen	none	Steady rest and regular meals keep your energy even, since the rising sign's lord works in a difficult house.
6th	Daily health and routine	Capricorn	Abdomen and waist	Knees	Rahu	A simple daily routine and regular check-ins with your body help when work pressure runs high.
8th	Recovery and resilience	Pisces	Pelvic region	Feet	none	Rest between demanding stretches supports recovery; Jupiter's strength here is a steadying factor.
12th	Rest and sleep	Cancer	Feet	Chest	Sun, Mars, Mercury, Ketu	Protect sleep with a calm evening routine and time away from screens before bed.

Traditional kalapurusha correspondences (houses and signs from head to feet), general regions only. This is traditional astrology, not medical advice; health decisions stay with you and your doctor.

Overall constitution

Your rising sign (lagna) is Leo, ruled by the Sun. The Sun sits in the 12th house, in Cancer, a sign friendly to it. The ruler of the rising sign in one of the difficult houses (6, 8 and 12) gets its results with more effort, so your vitality tends to come in steady stretches that need rest to renew them. The Sun is naturally a malefic in this chart, yet as your rising lord it governs the body, which is why steady care matters more than intensity. Jupiter aspects your rising sign, which the classical texts read as a sound, well-built constitution. Your rising sign sits 18.9 degrees into Leo, so this reading holds unless the birth time is off by roughly 45 minutes.

The Moon, which governs the mind and emotional steadiness, is in Scorpio in the 4th house. It is debilitated there, but the weakness is softened: Venus, the ruler of Taurus (the Moon's sign of exaltation), sits in a corner house, the 10th, and a classical rule counts that as cancelling the debilitation. The Moon in the 4th house is one of its best placements for comfort at home.

Traditional sensitivities

- 6th house, daily routine: Capricorn, ruled by Saturn, which sits in the 10th house, the career house. Rahu sits here too. The texts see Rahu in the 6th as strong for overcoming rivals, while noting puzzling or recurring complaints as the trade-off. The practical lesson is to notice small, repeated symptoms early. Saturn's position suggests that workload is where strain would show first, and a steady routine is the traditional answer.
- 8th house, recovery: Pisces, ruled by Jupiter, which is strong in its own sign in the 5th house. The texts link a heavily afflicted lord of the 8th with bodily strain and nervous tension. Here Jupiter is strong, so this is a caution rather than a forecast, and good rest supports steady recovery.

- 12th house, rest and sleep: Cancer, ruled by the Moon, with four planets gathered in it: the Sun, Mars, Mercury and Ketu. A crowded 12th is traditionally linked with restless nights. The texts say a strained Mercury keeps the mind busy after dark, and Mars in this house is linked with restless sleep. Mars sits close to the Sun, which the texts take as dimming it, though its debilitation is softened by classical rules.

Periods to take more care

Three stretches stand out. The Timeline section has the full dates.

- July to December 2028: Jupiter and Saturn both bear on the 6th house. The texts mark this as a time for daily routine.
- March to August 2029: the same double pass again, in the same house.
- November 2031 to November 2032: a Mars-Rahu sub-period, with Rahu in the 6th. Active for this area, but not supportive by itself.

In each, keep up rest and routine.

7 Relationships, marriage and partner

The 7th house and its lord

For a Leo lagna the 7th house is Aquarius, and its lord Saturn sits in the 10th house in Taurus, a sign where Saturn is at ease, together with Venus. Saturn joining Venus in the house of career and public standing is a classic link between partnership and work. The texts describe a devoted, career-minded spouse who helps the native's work, and often a profession that involves travel or work abroad. They also warn that a spouse may not always follow the native's wishes, and that when Saturn is under strain a partner can become over-ambitious and a career can lose its footing. The fuller picture is of a partner who is independent and capable, with goals of their own.

The 7th house itself is empty, so no planet in it colours the partner directly.

Venus and the partner's qualities

Venus is the natural signifier of marriage. It sits in its own sign Taurus, in the 10th house, which makes it a steady and well-placed benefic. The Malavya yoga forms from this placement. Classical texts link it with a happy marriage and a loving spouse, and modern astrologers read it as happiness from a partner and from children. In practice this shows up as warmth, affection and closeness, and a generally sociable temperament.

Venus is debilitated in the navamsa (D9), in Virgo. A debilitated navamsa gives less of the planet's good results: its gifts start well but need more effort to hold on to. So the strong promise of the main chart is partly held back, and it is best seen as something to build, not a guarantee.

The Darakaraka and the navamsa

The Darakaraka, the planet with the lowest degree in its sign, is the Sun. It describes the partner's qualities and the themes of the partnership. The Sun is also the lagna lord, placed in Cancer in the 12th house, a friendly sign for it, alongside Mars, Mercury and Ketu. In the navamsa it is moolatrikona in Leo, which gives it a secure footing. Some classical texts are cautious about the Sun in Cancer where marriage is concerned, so the 7th house is the better guide to the spouse itself.

In the navamsa the 7th house is Pisces, ruled by Jupiter, which sits in the 10th of the navamsa in Gemini. Pisces is a benefic sign, and the texts describe a spouse shaped by Jupiter as virtuous and restrained. Mercury, a natural malefic in this chart and debilitated in the navamsa, also sits in that 7th house. This suggests the partner's thinking and manner of communicating may need patience. The navamsa refines the main chart rather than replacing it. Where the two differ, the results are mixed, and both sides are worth reflecting on.

Manglik status

Reference	Mars counted from it	Manglik?
Lagna	12th house	Yes
Moon	9th house	No
Venus	3rd house	No
Result	Present from 1 of 3	Cancelled by the calculator's rules (met: mars movable sign, lagna cancer or leo, mars debilitated)

Manglik houses used: 1, 2, 4, 7, 8, 12.

Mars sits in the 12th house from the lagna, the 9th from the Moon and the 3rd from Venus. Classical rules treat Mars in certain houses as sensitive for marriage. Some lists count the 1st, 4th, 7th, 8th and 12th houses, others the 2nd, 4th, 7th, 8th and 12th, and modern practice uses all six. Mars in the 12th from the lagna meets that rule. Counted from the Moon or from Venus, it does not. So the Manglik (Kuja) dosha is present from the lagna alone.

It is cancelled on three counts. Mars sits in a movable sign (Cancer). The lagna is Leo, and the rules treat a Cancer or Leo lagna as cancelling. And Mars is debilitated. The classical cancellation that matters most is a matching Mars placement in the partner's chart, which is worth knowing if a match is being considered.

Modern astrologers, from Raman onward, judge the dosha to be over-applied. They read it as a Mars theme in partnership: energy, independence and friction that need to be channelled. It is common, and it is only one factor among many in marriage matching. The 7th house, its lord and Venus carry more weight.

Aspects on the 7th house

Saturn, from the 10th house, aspects the 7th. Its aspect is cooler in tone: the texts associate it with delay, distance or reserve in marriage, and with a serious, duty-bound approach. Two things soften this. Saturn owns the 7th in a Leo lagna, which the texts count as supportive, and Saturn's steadiness can become patience and loyalty in a relationship. No benefic aspect reaches the 7th to balance it, so the Saturn theme carries more weight here.

Mars, from the 12th house, also aspects the 7th. Mars is a natural malefic, but for Leo it is the yogakaraka, ruling the 4th and 9th, two of the good houses. Its aspect brings energy and passion into partnership, with a need for patience and fairness. It is steadier because it rules good houses, and less steady for sharing the 12th house with Ketu.

Friendships (11th house)

The 11th house is Gemini, ruled by Mercury in the 12th house, in its enemy sign Cancer. Braha reads a smaller circle of friends for this placement, so choosing companions carefully matters. Jupiter helps here. It sits in its own moolatrikona sign, Sagittarius, in the 5th house, and aspects the 11th, which supports a warm and genuine circle of friends. The net picture is a few close, well-chosen friendships rather than a large group.

When this area is most active

The current stretch is the Saturn sub-period within the Moon period, running until April 2027. Saturn rules the 7th and shares the 10th house with Venus, so it brings seriousness and career-minded thinking into partnership. It is a demanding stretch rather than an easy one, and better suited to steady groundwork than to a fresh commitment.

Later, the 7th house is activated twice when Jupiter and Saturn both touch it: from late August to early October 2029, and again from May to September 2030. The texts treat these as stretches when partnership comes to the foreground. They are timing markers, not predictions.

Decisions about partnership remain yours. These are themes to reflect on, and whether they match your own experience is the real test.

8 Family, home, siblings, children and education

Family of origin

The 2nd house, which shows the family you grew up in, is Virgo and is ruled by Mercury. Mercury sits in the 12th house in Cancer, its enemy sign. The classical texts link this placement with little happiness from the eldest child (BPHS), and Raman speaks of the same from an elder brother. Brihat Jataka notes friction with relatives, while Saravali says the ancestors' name still brings the native standing. The 2nd house itself holds no planet, so the family picture rests mostly on Mercury's weak position and on that friction with relatives.

Mother and home

The 4th house, which governs home, land and the mother, is Scorpio and is ruled by Mars. Mars sits in the 12th house, which the texts read as home and comfort falling into a house of distance. BPHS says domestic comforts are lacking. Raman speaks of little domestic happiness, while modern astrologers take it to mean living away from the birthplace.

The difficulty is softened. Mars is debilitated, but that debility is cancelled: the lord of its sign sits in a corner house (a kendra), and Mars is exalted in the navamsa, the divisional chart used for marriage and fortune. Venus, a natural benefic, aspects the 4th house, which Braha reads as domestic comfort and a good bond with the mother. Saturn also aspects the 4th. Braha reads that as a more restricted home life, so the home may feel sober and responsible rather than easy. The Moon in the 4th is covered under Mind.

Mars is also the traditional significator of the mother. Its debility and closeness to the Sun (it is combust) suggest the bond asks for attention and care. The texts do not read hardship from this.

Father and fortune

The 9th house, which governs the father and good fortune, is Aries and is ruled by Mars in the 12th. Raman, Braha and Rath all say the father may have modest means or a difficult life. Rath adds that Saturn in the 10th obstructs the 9th by argala, a form of obstruction through aspect. The Sun, which governs the father, sits in the 12th, and Phaladeepika links that with a strained relationship with him. Saravali describes a cool bond with the paternal side of the family. Jupiter's benign aspect on the 9th is the main counterweight. Raman connects it with devotion to parents and the father's well-being.

Siblings

The 3rd house, which governs younger siblings and their support, is Libra and is ruled by Venus. Venus sits in the 10th house in its own sign, Taurus, which is a strong position. Raman says siblings do well and help the native in every way.

Mars aspects the 3rd house and is the significator of younger siblings. Its aspect brings courage and energy into sibling matters. BPHS says it protects the 3rd when the 3rd lord joins it, and that does not happen here. So the aspect reads as drive and some friction rather than harm.

Saturn, the traditional karaka of siblings, sits in the 10th with Venus. Raman says all sibling events are read from it. It is aspected by the Moon, a benefic, and by Rahu, a malefic. Rahu's aspect is the one hard touch, and the Moon's offsets it.

Children

The 5th house, which governs children, creativity and learning, is Sagittarius, and Jupiter sits in it in its own sign and moolatrikona, a strong position. Every text credits Jupiter here with intelligence and good counsel. On children, though, the texts split sharply. Phaladeepika and Jataka Parijata see few children or distress, while Saravali and the Bhrigu Sutras see many. Raman says the number depends on the chart being favourable.

Two further points matter. First, BPHS and Phaladeepika hold that benefic influence decides the children result. No planet aspects the 5th house or Jupiter, so that test rests on Jupiter's own strength. Second, an old maxim says Jupiter in the 5th harms children. Bhavartha Ratnakara repeats it, but Raman limits the harm to affliction by Mars, Saturn or Rahu, and none of them touches Jupiter here. The Putrakaraka, the traditional karaka of children, is the Moon. It is debilitated but cancelled, and Venus, a benefic, aspects it. The full 5th house decides the outcome, not any one planet.

Education

Three anchors shape learning. Jupiter in the 5th gives the teacher's gifts: judgement, teaching and a love of scripture and philosophy. The Sagittarius Jupiter is a principled, generous, knowledge-sharing nature. Mercury, the usual planet of learning, sits in an enemy sign in the 12th, so its support for study is less direct. The 4th house, the foundation of schooling, is ruled by Mars in the 12th. Modern astrologers read that as study or home life that moves away from the birthplace.

When this area is most active

The clearest stretch is the double transit of the 5th house from November 2026 to January 2027, with Jupiter and Saturn both bearing on children and learning. The 4th house double transit from September 2030 to February 2031 brings home and mother matters forward. The Mars period from June to November 2031 is supportive for home, father and education, since Mars rules the 4th and 9th.

9 Spirituality, the 8th and 12th houses, hidden talents and foreign links

The 8th house: hidden matters and the searching mind

The 8th house covers hidden matters: research, the occult, and what lies beneath the surface. It holds no planets here. Its lord, Jupiter, sits in the 5th house in Sagittarius, in moolatrikona (a strong dignity, short of full ownership) and retrograde. Jupiter is a natural benefic and rules the 5th, a fortunate house, so its placement suits a deep, searching mind drawn to wisdom and study. Some modern readers take this as a strong inner pull toward truth. The texts add a caution: a strong 8th lord in a fortunate house can intensify the harder side of the 8th, so this mind does best with calm routines and steady, unhurried study rather than intense bursts.

The 9th house: dharma, teachers and fortune

The 9th house governs dharma (right living and duty), teachers and fortune. Its lord, Mars, sits in the 12th house, debilitated in Cancer but cancelled: the Moon, which rules Cancer, sits in an angular house, and Mars is exalted in the navamsa (the D9 divisional chart). Mars is also combust, too close to the Sun to shine freely. Even so, Mars is a yogakaraka for Leo, ruling the 4th (an angular house) and the 9th (a fortunate house), so it is one of the most useful planets in this chart. Jupiter aspects the 9th from the 5th, a benefic aspect that the texts link with piety, pilgrimage and respect for teachers.

The texts are negative on fortune when the 9th lord falls into the 6th, 8th or 12th, linking it with a modest start and hard work. Braha and Rath add a more hopeful side: fortune through far-off lands and a strong pull toward moksha (spiritual liberation). Mars itself shows a tendency to spend on religious works. The likeliest reading is that fortune comes through faith, generosity and distant places more than through easy material luck.

The 12th house and Ketu: release, retreat and expense

The 12th house governs release, retreat and expense. It is in Cancer, ruled by the Moon in the 4th house, and holds the Sun, Mars, Mercury and Ketu. Ketu is a shadow point (a node, not a body) and gives the house its most telling tone.

Classical texts read Ketu here as a warning about hidden tendencies and wasteful spending. Many later and modern authors, such as Frawley and Braha, call it an excellent placement for spiritual insight, charity and life abroad. Two cautions apply: Ketu sits in the Moon's sign, which Braha sees as a hard place for the nodes, and Frawley reads nodes in water signs as weakening the water element. The most useful reading is inward: a natural pull toward meditation and self-reliance. Raman and Foss both find a turn toward philosophy despite domestic strain.

The 12th lord, the Moon, sits in the 4th in Scorpio, debilitated but cancelled: Venus, which rules the Moon's exaltation sign, sits in an angular house. The Moon is a natural benefic, but Saturn and Ketu both aspect it, and the texts associate that with trouble over property and strain around home. Braha reads the same placement as a strong desire for liberation. In practice, home life may involve moves or distance from the birthplace, and property needs careful handling.

Saturn aspects the 12th from the 10th, a lean toward detachment and a simple, disciplined life. Mars with Ketu gives sudden, focused bursts of courage and a need for care with impulsive action. Frawley's view that Ketu boosts a planet is for a dignified Mars, which Mars is not here; Raman's caution about Mars under Ketu's influence does apply.

Karakamsha and the Atmakaraka

The Atmakaraka is the planet with the highest degree in its sign, standing for the soul and its core drive. Here it is Mercury, at 28 degrees in Cancer. Its navamsa sign, Pisces, is called the karakamsha. In Parashara and Jaimini texts it points to steady righteousness and the aim of final liberation. Modern astrologers such as Rath read it as a generous, spiritually deep soul.

The road is more demanding. Mercury sits in an enemy sign in the 12th, joined by the Sun, Mars and Ketu, aspected by Saturn and Rahu, and debilitated in that navamsa position. B.S. Rao notes that an Atmakaraka joined by malefics can make liberation harder to reach unless benefics aspect it, and none do here. Rath takes a malefic soul-planet as a sign of a more advanced soul. The aim is clear; the path is more effortful than easy.

Hidden talents

- Mars and Mercury together give a quick, practical, debating mind, with an aptitude for medicine, herbs and oils, technical or hands-on trades, and sharp eloquence (Jataka Parijata).
- The Moon in Scorpio, with its debility cancelled, is common among spiritual teachers and occultists (Frawley).
- Jupiter in Sagittarius is strong for rites, vows, initiations and pilgrimage (Saravali).

Foreign links

The texts link the 12th lord in the 4th with living abroad (Raman), and the 9th lord in the 12th with far-off lands (Braha and Rath). PanchangBodh frames the 12th as a place for foreign work and disciplined practice. Ketu's strongest note on success abroad applies only when it sits in Gemini or Virgo, so it does not apply here.

When this area is most active

The Mars sub-period from June to November 2031 (2031-06-06 to 2031-11-02) is the strongest stretch for this area, since Mars rules the 9th and is a yogakaraka. It overlaps with the double transit of Jupiter and Saturn over the 12th from 2031-06-14 to 2031-10-16, a classical timing marker for that house's matters. The Ketu sub-period from 2028-09-05 to 2029-04-06 is active rather than supportive by itself: Ketu sits in the 12th, asking for inward work and care with spending. These are the stretches to watch for turns toward study, retreat or travel; the Timeline has the details.

10 Yogas and doshas

Malavya (Venus). Venus sits in its own sign, Taurus, in the 10th house, and it is also in a kendra (an angle: houses 1, 4, 7 or 10) from the Moon, so the yoga holds from both reference points. Classical texts tie it to comfort, refined taste, vehicles and a warm home life. Venus is debilitated in the navamsa (the ninth-division chart), and some modern writers call the yoga largely nominal in that case. Expect it to show in taste, charm and domestic happiness more than as a guarantee of wealth.

Table 12. Yogas present, with their weight

Yoga	How it forms here	Weight (library)
Malavya	planet: Venus; sign: Taurus; house: 10; from moon kendra: True; combust: False	Possible for every lagna in some kendra (Raman's table).
Raja yoga (angle and trine lords)	Mars (lord of 4/9) and Sun (lord of 1): conjunct	Common. PVR (11.7.2) says the conjunction of a quadrant lord and a trine lord is found in many charts and its magnitude depends on strength and closeness.
Yogakaraka	Mars rules the 4th and 9th, placed in the 12th (Cancer, debilitated)	Structural: half the lagnas have a single-planet yogakaraka (Cancer, Leo, Taurus, Libra, Capricorn, Aquarius per Raman HJH), so its presence is fixed by the lagna and says nothing by itself.
Neecha Bhanga (Moon)	Moon debilitated in Scorpio (house 4); cancelled by: the lord of its exaltation sign in a kendra (1 of 6 tests)	Debilitation itself affects many charts, and the kendra-lord conditions are often met, so some cancellation is common.
Neecha Bhanga (Mars)	Mars debilitated in Cancer (house 12); cancelled by: its sign lord Moon in a kendra, exalted in D9, the lord of its exaltation sign in a kendra (3 of 6 tests)	Debilitation itself affects many charts, and the kendra-lord conditions are often met, so some cancellation is common.
Budhaditya	Sun and Mercury together in Cancer (house 12), 22°38′ apart; Mercury not combust	Very common in the rasi chart because Mercury never strays far from the Sun (P.V.R. Narasimha Rao 11.2); 'not, of course, rare' (Raman no. 24).
Amala	planets: ["Venus"]	Two reference points make the basic form fairly easy to meet; sources give no frequency figure.
Sunapha		Varahamihira counts 31 combinations of the five planets for Sunapha (Brihat Jataka 13.4; Raman no. 4 remarks); Saravali 13.3 says 30. The yoga is common because any of five planets will do. Raman weighs it by the nature...
Dhana yoga (wealth-house lords)	Mars (lord of 4/9) and Mercury (lord of 2/11): conjunct; Mars (lord of 4/9) and Sun (lord of 1): conjunct; Mercury (lord of 2/11) and Sun (lord of 1): conjunct	Common in some form. Raman's note to Bhavartha Ratnakara ch. 2 st. 4 says the majority of horoscopes have the weaker form that gives humble wealth.
Parivartana	exchanges: [{"planets": ["Moon", "Mars"], "houses": [4, 12], "type": "Dainya"}]	Phaladeepika's count: 28 of the 66 possible exchanges are Maha, 8 Khala and 30 Dainya.

Yoga	How it forms here	Weight (library)
Shakata	Moon in the 12th from Jupiter; cancelled	The Moon-Jupiter form is common, since it needs only a sign relation between two bodies.
Grahan	Sun with Ketu in the 12th, 3°31′ apart	The sign-conjunction form is fairly common.

Formation from the calculator; weight from the library entry for each yoga.

Raja yoga (Mars with the Sun). Mars, lord of the 4th and 9th, is conjunct the Sun, the lagna lord, in the 12th house. A link between an angle lord and a trine lord is the classic route to standing and recognition. The two planets are about 15 degrees apart. Stricter modern writers want them within roughly 5 to 6 degrees for full results, and Raman allows 12, so this link is real but loose. Both planets sit in a dusthana (the 6th, 8th or 12th house), and Mars is combust, meaning so close to the Sun that its light is overpowered. Rising responsibility here tends to come through steady effort, most in the periods of Mars and the Sun.

Yogakaraka (Mars). For Leo lagna, Mars rules one angle and one trine, which makes it the chart's yogakaraka, the most supportive functional planet. Its position is mixed. Mars is debilitated in Cancer, but the debility is cancelled on three of six classical tests: Mars is exalted in the navamsa, and the lord of its exaltation sign sits in a kendra. That relief is substantial. Combustion and the 12th house keep it from being fully open, so its periods bring growth in proportion to its strength, not a sudden rise.

Neecha bhanga (Moon). The Moon is debilitated in Scorpio, and that debility is cancelled, though on only one of the six formal tests. Its weakness is therefore partly relieved, and classical texts say such a cancellation can turn an early struggle into later strength. The Moon's themes (mind, mother, emotional steadiness) are owned in the Mind section; here, the point is that the lesson is steadiness built over time.

Budhaditya (Sun with Mercury). Mercury is 22.6 degrees from the Sun and clear of combustion, so the yoga counts in its stronger form. It supports sharp intelligence and practical skill, and it is a common yoga, so its weight is medium. Mercury sits in the 12th and in an enemy sign, which keeps the gift modest.

Amala (Venus in the 10th). Venus is the only benefic in the 10th, which classical texts link to lasting reputation and clean conduct. Saturn shares the 10th with Venus, 4.8 degrees apart. The stricter reading says a malefic in the 10th voids Amala altogether. Phaladeepika and Raman require only that a benefic be present. Read it as a real but contested yoga: a reputation earned by fair means, with Saturn's company making public life more demanding.

Sunapha (Jupiter). Jupiter, a planet other than the Sun, sits in the 2nd sign from the Moon (Sagittarius), so Sunapha forms. Texts tie it to wealth earned by one's own effort, learning and a respected standing. Jupiter is in its moolatrikona (a strong sign position) and retrograde, which helps, though it also rules the 8th, so some gains come with testing. The Moon is not joined to a node, so the results are not mixed for that reason.

Dhana (Mars, Sun and Mercury). Three wealth-linked planets are conjunct in the 12th: Mars (4th and 9th lord), the Sun (1st lord) and Mercury (2nd and 11th lord). Dhana yogas promise earning capacity in proportion to the strength of the planets involved. Because they share a dusthana, earning here tends to take effort. Bhavartha Ratnakara itself says most charts reach modest rather than great wealth, so keep the expectation modest.

Parivartana (Moon and Mars). The Moon sits in Mars's sign Scorpio (4th house) and Mars sits in the Moon's sign Cancer (12th house): a mutual exchange of signs. Because the Moon rules the 12th, the classical reading calls it Dainya, linking home and comfort (4th) with rest, retreat and loss (12th). Phaladeepika reads such exchanges harshly; Frawley reads exchange as strengthening each planet's power. A balanced reading: two areas of life are closely tied, with effort and obstacles around 12th-house matters.

Shakata (Moon 12th from Jupiter). The Moon-Jupiter form of this yoga is present, but cancelled because the Moon is in a kendra (house 4). Classical texts describe fortune that rises and falls like a cart wheel; here the cancellation means that pattern is softened.

Grahan (Sun with Ketu). The Sun and Ketu share the 12th at 3.5 degrees apart. "Grahan" (eclipse) is a later popular name, not a classical yoga, and a same-sign conjunction is not an actual eclipse at birth. Read it as intensity around the Sun's matters (vitality, self-expression, father) that can turn inward or spiritual. Low weight.

Doshas

Table 13. Dosha checks

Dosha	Status	Comment (from the calculator)
Manglik (Kuja)	Cancelled	Counted from Lagna only (1 of 3; Mars 12th from the lagna, 9th from the Moon, 3rd from Venus); cancellation met: mars movable sign, lagna cancer or leo, mars debilitated
Kaal Sarp	Absent	2 planets lie outside the Rahu-Ketu axis (Venus, Saturn), so neither the full nor the partial form applies
Pitra (ancestral)	Present	Flags met: lights or nodes with mars saturn: Ketu+Mars, Sun+Mars; sun or moon with node: Sun+Ketu; ninth lord with malefic: Ketu, Sun
Guru-Chandal	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Shrapit	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Angarak	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Ghata	Absent	Not formed in this chart
Ganda Moola	Present	Flag only; no reference points or cancellations computed

Sade Sati and Dhaiya are dated in the Timeline.

Manglik (Kuja) dosha. Present from the lagna: Mars is in the 12th, one of the houses read for Manglik (1, 2, 4, 7, 8, 12). From the Moon and from Venus, Mars falls outside those houses, so those reference points do not apply. It is cancelled on three grounds: Mars is in a movable sign (Cancer), the lagna is Leo, and Mars is debilitated. Modern authorities from Raman onward say the dosha is often over-applied. In matching it is one factor among many, best framed as a Mars theme in partnership: energy, independence and friction to channel well.

Kaal Sarp. Not present, neither full nor partial. Venus and Saturn fall on the opposite side of the Rahu-Ketu axis from the other planets. It is a modern idea absent from the classical texts, and Raman and K.N. Rao give it little weight in an individual chart.

Pitra dosha. Flagged under the modern, broader definition: the Sun conjunct Ketu, the Sun with Mars, and the 9th lord (Mars) afflicted alongside the Sun and Ketu. The more specific classical combinations about progeny (centred on the Sun, the 5th house and the 9th and 10th lords) are not among the flags raised here. This is not a sign that ancestors cursed anyone. Ancestral remembrance rites are an optional, traditional practice; avoid any reading about having or not having children.

Ganda moola. Flagged: the Moon is in Jyeshtha, one of the junction nakshatras. The narrow classical stretch is tied to the Jyeshtha-Moola junction, with the most severe part at the end of Jyeshtha and the start of Moola. Whether the birth falls in that stretch depends on the Moon's exact degree (17 degrees 33 minutes Scorpio) and the birth time, so check that against the classical timing. The broader popular reading flags the whole nakshatra regardless. This is a birth-timing consideration, not a fact about the family or the child's future; classical texts prescribe purification rites, and shanti rites are an optional family tradition.

11 Timeline

Vimshottari dashas are nine planetary periods of fixed length that follow one another through life. The first starts from the lord of the Moon's birth star, which for you is Mercury, with about 15 years of it still to run at birth. Each period brings forward what its planet rules and signifies in your chart, and the house it occupies and the planets it joins or is aspected by decide which matters come to the front. Slow transits of Jupiter and Saturn act as secondary timers inside the periods, and they count most when they fall on the same houses. These are patterns to compare with your own experience; the decisions stay yours.

How timing works

Mercury, 1972 to 1988 (ages 0 to 15). This period often coincides with early learning, speech and friendships, and with a family life that was not always settled. Mercury rules the 2nd and 11th, the houses of money and gains, but sits in the 12th, a house of expense, and is weak in the navamsa (the divisional chart the texts use for the finer reading). The texts therefore split between a sharp mind and trade gains on one side, and quarrels with relatives and worry on the other. Saturn's passage around the Moon overlaps this period too: an Ashtama Dhaiya (Saturn's two-and-a-half-year pass through the 8th sign from the Moon) in 1973 to 1975, and a Sade Sati (the seven-and-a-half-year cycle around the Moon's sign) from 1982 to 1990. Both are popular traditions built on older house-by-house rules, and modern authors disagree about how severe they are. Does this match your early years?

Table 14. Vimshottari mahadashas

Mahadasha	From	To	Age	Planet's role in this chart
Mercury	22 Jul 1972 (birth)	5 Jun 1988	0-15	Lord of the 2nd and 11th; enemy's sign in the 12th; with Sun, Mars, Ketu; Atmakaraka
Ketu	5 Jun 1988	6 Jun 1995	15-22	Node in the 12th (Cancer); acts for its sign lord Moon
Venus	6 Jun 1995	6 Jun 2015	22-42	Lord of the 3rd and 10th; own sign in the 10th; with Saturn; Amatyakaraka
Sun	6 Jun 2015	6 Jun 2021	42-48	Lord of the 1st (lagna lord); friend's sign in the 12th; with Mars, Mercury, Ketu
Moon (now)	6 Jun 2021	6 Jun 2031	48-58	Lord of the 12th; debilitated (cancelled) in the 4th
Mars	6 Jun 2031	6 Jun 2038	58-65	Lord of the 4th and 9th (yogakaraka); debilitated (cancelled) in the 12th; with Sun, Mercury, Ketu
Rahu	6 Jun 2038	5 Jun 2056	65-83	Node in the 6th (Capricorn); acts for its sign lord Saturn
Jupiter	5 Jun 2056	5 Jun 2072	83-99	Lord of the 5th and 8th; moolatrikona in the 5th, retrograde
Saturn	5 Jun 2072	6 Jun 2091	99-118	Lord of the 6th and 7th; friend's sign in the 10th; with Venus

Balance at birth: Mercury 15.87 years. Ages are completed years; Vimshottari years of 365.25 days.

Ketu, 1988 to 1995 (ages 15 to 22). This period often coincides with restlessness, a move or a change of study, and friction with people around you. Ketu sits in the 12th and takes on the nature of its sign lord, the Moon, which the texts link to an inward, spiritual interest where it is supported. The Kantaka Dhaiya (Saturn's pass through the 4th sign from the Moon) overlaps its close, from 1993 to 1996, and is often linked with domestic strain and separation from friends or relatives. Does that ring true?

Venus, 1995 to 2015 (ages 22 to 42). This long period often coincides with comfort, partnership or marriage, and steady work. Venus sits in its own sign in the 10th, the career house, rules the 3rd and 10th, and is your Amatyakaraka, the role the reference notes tie to counsel, career and profession. Malavya and Amala, two benefic yogas, both sit in Venus, and the texts connect them with comfort, taste and a clean public name. A Dhaiya stretch (2002 to 2005) and a Sade Sati from late 2011 to early 2017 also overlap it. Does this match your twenties and thirties?

Sun, 2015 to 2021 (ages 42 to 48). The Sun is your lagna lord, which ties this period to self, authority and recognition. It sits in the 12th, so its results come with more effort. It is in Cancer, a friend's sign, which the texts link to standing won through effort and to travel, but it is with malefics, which they link to friction with people in power and to losses. The setting phase of Sade Sati (Saturn in Sagittarius, 2017 to 2020) overlaps this period, with a peak in 2017. This period often coincides with standing built slowly under pressure. Does that match?

The Moon period, 2021 to 2031 (ages 48 to 58, the period you are in now). This is a mixed period. The Moon rules the 12th but sits in the 4th, which the texts rate among its best places: home, mother, vehicles, friends and inner comfort. It is waxing, counts as a benefic in your chart, and is debilitated in Scorpio. The weakness is partly cancelled: Venus, lord of the Moon's exalted sign, sits in a kendra (the 10th), and the Moon itself sits in one. The Moon is in the middle of its sign, so its results gather in the middle of the period. It also holds the Putrakaraka role, which the reference notes tie to children, so family events stay central. Expect home life, property and family matters to be the strong side, with money strain, worry and concern for the mother as the difficult side.

Sub-periods of the Moon period

Table 15. Sub-periods (antardashas) within the Moon mahadasha

Sub-period	From	To	Sub-lord's role and tone
Moon-Moon	6 Jun 2021	6 Apr 2022	Rules 12, in the 4th: lord of a dusthana (6/8/12); mixed or demanding
Moon-Mars	6 Apr 2022	5 Nov 2022	Rules 4, 9, in the 12th: yogakaraka, trikona lord, kendra lord; supportive
Moon-Rahu	5 Nov 2022	6 May 2024	In the 6th: node; acts through its sign lord Saturn
Moon-Jupiter	6 May 2024	5 Sep 2025	Rules 5, 8, in the 5th: trikona lord, lord of a dusthana (6/8/12); supportive
Moon-Saturn (now)	5 Sep 2025	6 Apr 2027	Rules 6, 7, in the 10th: kendra lord, lord of a dusthana (6/8/12), lord of 3/6/11; mixed or demanding
Moon-Mercury	6 Apr 2027	5 Sep 2028	Rules 2, 11, in the 12th: lord of 3/6/11; mixed or demanding
Moon-Ketu	5 Sep 2028	6 Apr 2029	In the 12th: node; acts through its sign lord Moon
Moon-Venus	6 Apr 2029	5 Dec 2030	Rules 3, 10, in the 10th: kendra lord, lord of 3/6/11; mixed or demanding
Moon-Sun	5 Dec 2030	6 Jun 2031	Rules 1, in the 12th: lagna lord; supportive

Tone is from the sub-lord's house rulership for this lagna; the mahadasha lord colours every sub-period.

Moon within Moon, Jun 2021 to Apr 2022. This opening stretch often coincides with a gentle start: learning, devotion and family events. Its debilitation, softened as above, often coincides with some money strain and friction with authority. Does that match?

Moon within Mars, Apr to Nov 2022. Mars sits in the 12th, and the Moon and Mars swap signs, tying home and loss together. This short stretch often coincides with heat and friction at work or at home, disputes, and money pressure from property or business.

Moon within Rahu, Nov 2022 to May 2024. Rahu sits in the 6th, a house the texts rate well for overcoming rivals, so this stretch often coincides with success in contests, pilgrimage or charity. It also often coincides with unsettled health, dealings with officials, and a need for care with routine and food.

Moon within Jupiter, May 2024 to Sep 2025. Jupiter, a trikona lord, sits in its moolatrikona sign in the 5th, a strong seat. This stretch often coincides with recognition, family celebrations, new clothes or vehicles, and gains through children.

Moon within Saturn, Sep 2025 to Apr 2027 (current). Saturn sits in the 10th, a kendra, in a friend's sign alongside Venus, and rules the 6th and 7th. Its good side, as the texts describe it, is children, friendship, property, business gained through working people, and royal favour. Its difficult side is enjoyment at some times and strain with the wife and children at others, with a call for extra care of health and vitality. This is the stretch in which the current Saturn transit (below) feels strongest, because the Saturn sub-period is running. Expect steady work and property progress, with worry about children and money as the points to watch.

Moon within Mercury, Apr 2027 to Sep 2028. Mercury sits in the 12th and rules the 2nd and 11th. The texts link that to money that is hard to keep and gains that flow out, though it also carries a Dhana (wealth) link that supports earning. The good side is study, trade, writing, settling disputes and close dealings with authorities. Keep rest and general health steady here, since this stretch calls for a steady pace.

Moon within Ketu, Sep 2028 to Apr 2029. Ketu sits in the 12th with the Sun, Mars and Mercury, and is aspected by Saturn and Rahu. This short stretch often coincides with distraction, some loss, quarrels with friends, and public criticism. Its gentler side, through its sign lord the Moon, is wealth, family happiness and religious inclination, when the chart supports it. Keep finances careful and look after the spouse's health.

Moon within Venus, Apr 2029 to Dec 2030. Venus sits in its own sign in the 10th, rules the 3rd and 10th, and forms Malavya and Amala, so this stretch is where those yogas show. The texts describe comfort and standing: high position, clothes, ornaments, vehicles, a new house, happiness with the wife and children, and sound health. The shadow is Venus's company with Saturn in the same sign, which the texts link to strain over land, partnership and friction with government. This is one of the most comfortable stretches of the Moon period.

Moon within Sun, Dec 2030 to Jun 2031. The Sun is the lagna lord but sits in the 12th, so its results come with effort. It sits in Cancer, a friend's sign, and forms a Raja yoga (a link between the lord of an angle and the lord of a trine, for standing and status) and a Dhana link. The good side is recovery of position, recognition from authorities and a sense of confidence. The strain is friction with people in power and losses of honour or money, since the Sun is with malefics. Jupiter's transit into Sagittarius, the 2nd from the Moon, from Feb to Jun 2031 supports this stretch. Advise rest toward its end.

The Mars period, Jun 2031 to Jun 2038 (ages 58 to 65)

Mars is your chart's yogakaraka, the one planet that rules both a kendra and a trikona (here the 4th, home, and the 9th, fortune). Its period is the largest turn of the decade. Mars sits in the 12th in Cancer, debilitated, combust with the Sun, and exalted in the navamsa. The weakness is partly cancelled: the Moon, lord of Mars's sign, sits in a kendra; Saturn, lord of its exalted sign, sits in a kendra; and Mars is exalted in the navamsa. The favourable side is strong, with property, initiative, courage and competition. The difficult side is real: quarrels with siblings and family, expenses, and heat-related strain. Mars sits in the last ten degrees of its sign, so its main effects are more likely toward the later part of the period, and the texts warn of some unfavourable turns at the end of even a strong Mars period.

Inside the Mars period, one stretch at a time

Mars within Mars, Jun to Nov 2031 (the key stretch). This is the first stretch of the Mars period and the one that matters most in the next decade. Mars's role as yogakaraka puts its own stretch at the top of the chart's functional ranking, and it is the first taste of that promise. Two things temper it. Mars sits in the 12th, combust and in a debilitated sign, and a planet's own stretch gives only part of its promise; the texts disagree on how much of a yogakaraka's yoga shows in its own stretch. The softeners are the cancellation of its weakness and its navamsa exaltation. The slow timers add weight: Jupiter moves over the Moon's sign from Jun to Oct 2031, and the 4th house is under double transit from Apr 2030 to Oct 2031. Expect property and initiative to come up, and treat home questions as things to test, not forecasts.

Mars within Rahu, Nov 2031 to Nov 2032. Rahu sits in the 6th, a seat many texts rate for defeating rivals, and it is vargottama. Its sign lord is Saturn, a lord of the 6th and 7th, and this stretch is among the hardest in every source. Rahu and Mars aspect each other, so the Mars period's main results show here. The favourable side is contests won and gains from effort. The difficult side calls for caution with legal matters, travel, money, health checks, and people of doubtful intent. From May 2032 the Dhaiya overlaps the second half of this stretch.

Mars within Jupiter, Nov 2032 to Oct 2033. Jupiter, the trikona lord ruling the 5th and 8th, sits in its moolatrikona sign in the 5th and is retrograde. It also forms the cancellation of Mars's weakness, so this stretch is tied directly to the softened side of the period. The texts see mentors, a good name, family happiness, property and children, a welcome easing inside a demanding period. Two cautions apply. It is the 6th from Mars, which one school reads as unfavourable, and the Dhaiya (Saturn in Gemini, May 2032 to Jul 2034) covers all of it, which pulls the reading down. Keep health and dealings with officials in view.

Mars within Saturn, Oct 2033 to Dec 2034. Saturn rules the 6th and 7th, sits in the 10th (a kendra, for recognition and property) in a friend's sign, and is in the 11th from Mars, a house of gains. The good side, as the texts describe it, is recognition from government, a growing reputation, wealth and happiness from children. The difficult side is foreign journeys, loss of position, mental strain and defeat in contests. The Dhaiya runs until Jul 2034 and the Sankata yogini until Mar 2034, so this stretch carries both. The texts link it to a need for extra care of health and vitality, so keep a steady routine and be cautious with authority and property matters.

Mars within Mercury, Dec 2034 to Dec 2035. Mercury rules the 2nd and 11th, sits in the 12th in an enemy's sign, and is debilitated in the navamsa. It is joined with Mars, so the period's quarrels show here too. The texts split: trade, learning, negotiation and settling disputes on one side; enemies, rivals, worries about theft and mental strain on the other. This is the most demanding of the Mars stretches for the number of difficult readings it carries. Keep speech careful, take time over contracts and travel plans, and keep general health steady.

Mars within Ketu, Dec 2035 to Apr 2036. Ketu sits in the 12th, takes on the nature of its sign lord the Moon, and shares Mars's sign. The older texts describe this stretch sharply: sudden hazards, quarrels with relatives, family disputes and a pull to leave home. Later authors see withdrawal and spiritual insight in Ketu's 12th-house seat. Keep care with hazards, travel and family disputes.

Mars within Venus, Apr 2036 to Jun 2037. Venus sits in its own sign in the 10th, forms Malavya and Amala, and is 11th from Mars, a house of gains. The texts describe a pleasant interval of comforts, relationships, family events, property and charity. Its difficult side comes from Venus's company with Saturn, which the texts link to family disagreements, losses and friction with officials. Because the yogas show in their own periods, this is the gentlest stretch of the Mars period and a bright close to the decade. Keep care with reputation and close relationships.

From the computed ephemeris to 24 Oct 2032. A planet re-entering a sign it just left is a retrograde return.

Saturn is in Pisces now, the 5th from your Moon, which the texts link to worry over children, a dip in money, a clouded mind and quarrels. The current Moon-Saturn stretch makes this transit feel stronger. Saturn gives most of its transit effect in the last ten degrees of a sign, so the heavier part of each stretch falls near its end. From Jun 2027 it sits in Aries, the 6th from the Moon, where it is debilitated and the usual relief from enemies and worries fails for those months. It returns briefly to Pisces in Oct 2027 and settles in Aries from Feb 2028 to Aug 2029. From Aug to Oct 2029, and again from Apr 2030 to May 2032, it sits in Taurus, the 7th from the Moon, a strain on partnership and travel, and over the natal Venus and Saturn in the 10th, so career matters are under review. From May 2032 it enters Gemini, the 8th from the Moon. This is the Ashtama Dhaiya, which the texts count among the hardest transits, with losses, strain on the body and separation listed. Treat it as the clearest testing stretch of the decade: rest, caution with money and debt, and regular health checks. These are the hard results the texts associate with it, not a forecast.

Jupiter is in Leo, the 10th from the Moon, until Jan 2027 and again from Jun to Nov 2027. The texts read this as a test of position and property, but a reverse-vedha check (a second planet's position that blunts the difficulty) holds here, so the hard side is softened. Its best stretch is Cancer, the 9th from the Moon and an exalted sign, from Jan to Jun 2027. Virgo, the 11th from the Moon, runs from Nov 2027 to Mar 2028 and is a house of gains and honour. Libra from Dec 2028 to Mar 2029 is the 12th, with grief and worry about travel. Scorpio, over the Moon's sign, runs from Jan to May 2030 and again from Sep 2030 to Feb 2031, linked with displacement, expenses and quarrels. Sagittarius from Feb to Jun 2031 is the 2nd from the Moon, moolatrikona: money, home and respected speech. Capricorn from Mar to Aug 2032 is the 3rd from the Moon and debilitated, so the texts say its work-related obstacles are heavier.

Double transits (Jupiter and Saturn both acting on one house from the lagna) cluster in the 10th (career) from Aug 2029 to May 2032, the 4th (home and property) from Apr 2030 to Oct 2031, the 9th (fortune and teachers) from Jun 2027 to Jan 2030, the 11th (gains and friends) from Dec 2028 to Jan 2030, the 5th (children and creative work) from Nov 2026 to Nov 2027, and the 1st, 5th and 11th together from Aug to Oct 2032. Use these for timing decisions about home and career, not as predictions of events.

The current yogini is Sankata, Rahu's period of eight years (Mar 2026 to Mar 2034). The yogini texts treat it as the most demanding of the set: setbacks, health strain, separations, legal or official trouble and confusion. Rahu's seat in the 6th is among the better ones for overcoming rivals, which tempers the tone; the texts ask for patience and care rather than fixed outcomes. Mangala, the Moon's one-year yogini (Mar 2034 to Mar 2035), is middling because the Moon is debilitated, with home events, devotion and comfort. Siddha, Venus's yogini, has just ended (Mar 2019 to Mar 2026); the texts describe it as a time of success and comfort, which you can check against those years. Chara periods, dates only, as a timing marker: Vrishabha from Jul 2023 to Jul 2035, Mithuna from Jul 2035 to Jul 2036, and Karka from Jul 2036 to Jul 2043.

In date order. Sub-periods are Vimshottari; a double transit is Jupiter and Saturn both acting on a house from the lagna; Saturn phases are counted from the Moon.

The key stretch is Mars within Mars (Jun to Nov 2031), the yogakaraka's own stretch, with its softened weakness and a double transit on home that same year. The brightest stretches are Moon within Venus (2029 to 2030) and Mars within Venus (2036 to 2037), while the most testing are the current Moon within Saturn stretch, the Ashtama Dhaiya from May 2032, and Mars within Saturn (Oct 2033 to Dec 2034).

12 Strengths, challenges, guidance and optional remedies

Your chart has a clear shape: a useful planet at its centre, a crowded twelfth house, and a Moon that gives steadiness at home. Its best results come through effort and timing rather than ease.

Strengths to build on

- Mars, the yogakaraka. For a Leo rising, Mars rules both a corner house (the fourth, home) and a trine house (the ninth, fortune), the planet most tied to this chart's upward movement. Its debility is cancelled and it is exalted in the navamsa, so its periods can bring real growth. Its closeness to the Sun keeps that growth steady rather than sudden.
- Jupiter's protection. Jupiter sits in its own sign and moolatrikona in the fifth house, and it is the only planet aspecting the rising sign. The traditional texts read that as principled habits, good counsel and support for learning and savings.
- Venus in its own sign. Venus in the tenth gives comfort, a respected public name and a pleasant working life. With Malavya and Amala, two yogas the texts link with refinement and a clean reputation, it is one of the brightest supports in the chart, though its navamsa position is weaker and needs building.
- A steadying Moon. The Moon is waxing, which makes it a benefic here, and it sits in the fourth house. Its weakness is only partly cancelled, but Sunapha beside it gives the emotional life a reasonable, well-liked face.
- Inner dignity. The Sun is in moolatrikona in the navamsa, and Rahu and Ketu keep the same sign in both charts. The lagna lord's inner strength is real, even though its outward placement asks for effort.

Challenges to manage

- A crowded twelfth house. The Sun, Mars, Mercury and Ketu all sit in the house of expense and withdrawal. Energy turns inward and private, and much of your effort goes unseen at first.
- Money that moves out. Mercury rules the second and eleventh houses, which hold savings and gains, yet it sits in the twelfth in an enemy's sign. Money tends to be spent before it builds, and this is the chart's most practical pressure point.
- Restless thinking. Mercury stands for the self's core drive, and in this placement it runs quick and talkative, with a fondness for argument. Steady routine and time to reflect help it settle.
- Saturn's weight. Saturn sits in the tenth and aspects the fourth and seventh houses, which the texts read as seriousness, delay and a need for structure at home and in partnership. The current Moon-Saturn stretch asks for steady groundwork. Later, the Ashtama Dhaiya, Saturn's passage through the eighth sign from the Moon, is the texts' hardest transit for this Moon, and it is associated with strain on health, money and close ties.
- Rest and routine. Rahu in the sixth and the crowded twelfth both point toward daily habits. The texts link the sixth with small, recurring complaints and the twelfth with restless nights, so steady sleep matters.

Practical guidance by life area

Career. Build skill steadily, and choose colleagues and employers with care, since Saturn rules your sixth house. Venus in the tenth rewards patience and clear commitments. Initiative fits best in Mars's own stretch, from June to November 2031, when the yogakaraka takes the lead.

Money. Save before you spend, and keep a plain budget. The stretch from April 2027 to September 2028 suits planning and study rather than large moves, since Mercury, lord of both wealth houses, leads it. Jupiter's steady influence on gains is the best counterweight.

Relationships and home. Open, unhurried talk does more for you than quick fixes. The Venus stretch of the Moon period, from April 2029 to December 2030, is one of the most comfortable spells for building a home and strengthening family ties.

Health and routine. Keep meals, rest and sleep on a regular rhythm, which matters more than intensity. The Mars-Saturn stretch from October 2033 to December 2034 asks for the most care in this area, so set those habits in place early. This is not medical advice; for any health concern, please see a doctor.

Learning and spirituality. Jupiter in the fifth and Ketu in the twelfth both favour study, teachers and quiet practice. Reading, reflection and occasional pilgrimage suit you better than constant activity.

Traditional remedies (optional)

Table 20. Optional traditional remedies

Planet	Why it is suggested	Traditional day	Practice	Status
Sun	in a friend's sign, in the 12th	Sunday	Morning prayer and water offerings to the Sun, with simple charity on Sundays.	Optional
Moon	debilitated, cancelled, in the 4th	Monday	Prayer or name mantra on Mondays, and sharing milk or rice with people in need.	Optional
Mars	debilitated, cancelled, in the 12th, close to the Sun	Tuesday	Prayer or name mantra on Tuesdays, and practical help to people who need it.	Optional
Mercury	in an enemy's sign, in the 12th	Wednesday	Reading or study on Wednesdays with a prayer for clear speech, and gifts of books to students.	Optional
Rahu	in the 6th	Saturday	A simple prayer or name mantra on Saturdays, and feeding animals or the poor.	Optional
Ketu	in the 12th	Tuesday	Quiet prayer or name mantra on Tuesdays, and modest charity given without fuss.	Optional

All remedies are optional traditional practices. No gemstone is needed.

Remedies in this tradition are optional devotional or lifestyle practices, never a requirement or a fix, and none is needed for the chart to work. Most are free: prayer or a name mantra on the planet's day, simple charity, and steady habits. The table below gives one traditional practice for each planet the texts single out here.

Taken as a whole, the chart is demanding in places but well supported: a yogakaraka Mars, a benefic Jupiter, a Venus in its own sign, and a lagna lord with real inner dignity. Its best results come through effort, patience and the stretches that suit your own strengths. Treat the dated periods as checks against your experience rather than forecasts, and keep the decisions in your own hands.
